Ford vs. Rockefeller.
50,000 Kind Indians.
A Worried Queen.
Handicap for Louisiana.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

HENRY FORD'S offhand statement, "no successful boy ever saved money," was not meant literally. He meant that it was better to spend for information than merely to save a few dollars. Thomas A. Edison, his intimate friend, "Never had any money until he got so much that he couldn't spend it."

The other "world's richest man," John D. Rockefeller, is surely "a successful boy," and did save money. He advises young and old to save now, as he hands each one a ten-cent piece with a smile worth a good deal of money. Mr. Rockefeller will tell you, "Save money, not chiefly for the money you save, but because saving teaches self-control, and that's the beginning of wisdom."

FORD has high respect for John D. Rockefeller. He said to this writer, "I new saw John D. Rockefeller but once. But when I saw that face I knew what made Standard Oil."

BOLIVIA still wants to fight Paraguay. Young Bolivians enroll, march and drill. Fifty thousand Quichuas and Amaras Indians offer to fight on Bolivia's frontiers. Deeply touched, the Bolivian government thanks them.

IT IS hard to realize that not long ago the British were recruiting Indians in Canada, sending them to scalp their Yankee cousins in Northern New York and elsewhere. Times improve.

KING GEORGE is not able to answer the message of sympathy sent to him by President Coolidge, and a reply sent by Queen Mary through Lord Stamfordham reveals her anxiety. She refers to "the general infection." Doctors know what that means—a poisoned blood stream. And she foresees "weeks of slow, anxious progress before convalescence can be reached."

IF THE king recovers, he will probably owe his life to the return of his oldest son, and prompt action taken by him. Assuming the responsibility of life or death, it was the Prince of Wales who ordered an operation without which the King's death was inevitable.

SHIPPING board handicaps New Orleans by a differential of sixty cents a ton on imports of burlap from India. New York harbor gets the benefit of the differential.

Uncle Sam should treat all his children alike. Why handicap Louisiana because the great harbor of New Orleans happens to be some miles west of New York?

Has the Supreme Court of the United States had a chance to pass on that question?

"I'M game—not worrying a bit," said "Red" Moran to Father McCaffrey, walking to the electric chair smoking a cigaret. He played cards with his guard until told to change to a black suit, presumably out of respect for the electric chair. You can't wear it in heaven.

"Red" took the cigaret from his mouth when the death cap was put on his head, and so died.

MORAN was mistaken in his statement, "I Am Game." True gameness fights through the battle of life, hard though it may be.

Anybody can show bravado for a moment. To endure life's troubles requires gameness of a higher kind than that possessed by Moran when he killed two policemen and smoked in the death room.

CORONER ORDERS GIRL KILLER'S HUSBAND UNDER ARREST

International News Service.

CANTON, O., Dec. 15.—The arrest of Wilbur O. Heldman, 27-year-old husband of Margaret Heldman, the "phantom gun woman," who was shot and killed as she was en route to surrender herself for the murder of Vernard Fearn, Waco coal operator, was asked by Coroner T. C. McQuate today.

Sheriff Gibson was expected to send a deputy to Lorain immediately to place Heldman under arrest.

Mrs. Heldman was shot as she and her husband were driving to the sheriff's office Thursday night.

Heldman said she shot herself and Coroner McQuate confirmed this by pronouncing the death a suicide.

DISCREPANCIES SEEN

The coroner said today, however, there appeared to be certain discrepancies in Heldman's story and asked his arrest on suspicion.

Relatives of the dead girl, including her sister, Mrs. Roy Pierce, of Canton; a brother, Joseph Horner, of Dubois, Pa., and her father, Matthew Horner, of Washington, D. C., have declared her husband frequently mistreated and abused her.

REVEALED

Sheriff Gibson said he has learned that on several occasions Heldman threatened her with a pistol. It was Heldman's pistol with which she killed Fearn at the door of his home, four miles from here, December 6. She was killed with the same pistol just a week later as her husband

KING HAS RELAPSE; PRINCE ON SEA DASH

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—A second son of King George is on the last lap of his race against death today, while latest bulletins from His Majesty's bedside indicate that he is barely holding his own after a relapse last evening.

With Prince George, the youngest son of the King, as passenger, the Berengaria is steaming at full speed across the Atlantic. The captain hopes to set a record for the trip.

The 26-year-old prince arrived in New York yesterday from Bermuda on H. M. S. Durban. His first act was to have a radio telephone talk with his mother, the Queen, and apparently he received some assurance on his father's condition.

GUIDED BY AMBASSADOR

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, took charge of the Prince's brief stay in New York.

Prince George got a good look at the Woolworth Building, visited the Metropolitan Museum of Art and made a brief trip to the Bronx Park Zoo. At his request "no fuss was made over him."

He spent a quiet evening at the home of Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt

THIEF ESCAPES FIRE FROM POLICE GUN

A holdup man who staged two robberies within a half hour on the North Side early today was being sought by police after he had narrowly escaped capture by Patrolman Robert Groves, who fired several shots at him as he fled from a Federal street restaurant.

The robber escaped in an automobile he had stolen earlier in the evening from in front of the Allegheny General Hospital.

Shortly before 3:30 o'clock the robber pulled up beside the parked taxicab of Albert McKnight, of 159 Pius street, at California and Marshall avenues. McKnight was forced to turn over $5 at the point of a revolver and then was ordered to leave his cab and run down the street. It was several minutes before McKnight ventured to return to his machine.

Twenty minutes later, the same robber entered the restaurant of Michael Angelo, at Federal and Erie streets. Flourishing a revolver, he forced George Valastos, a waiter, to open the cash register and give him the contents, about $30. He then walked to the street and climbed into the machine parked at the curb.

Valastos followed, calling for police. Patrolman Groves was nearby in Federal street, and he reached the restaurant in time to fire several shots as the automobile speeded away.

Coolidge Favors Porto Rico Relief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—President Coolidge believes that it will be necessary to make some provision for the devastated island of Porto Rico at this session of Congress and estimates that an outlay of at least $7,000,000 will be required. Of this amount, he understands that $2,500,000 would be expended with no return to the United States, while the remains would be used as a loan for the restoration of agriculture.

R. W. Egan, Editor, Dies in Oklahoma

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Robert W. Egan, of Tulsa, Okla., former well known Pittsburgh newspaperman, died today in the western city, relatives here were advised today. Mr. Egan, former managing editor of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, and vice-president of the Oil City Derrick and the Oil & Gas Journal, has lived in Tulsa for several years.

Fog and Smoke To Remain Here

Murky weather will continue to be Pittsburgh's lot for the time being, despite the day's slight breezes and rains of the last 24 hours.

Gradually the fog and smoke blanket will be scattered by the wind, but cloudy weather will hide the sun today and probably tomorrow, the late Washington weather forecasts for the district indicated.

A temperature drop to about 35 degrees is expected tonight.

CASHIER DROWNED AS BANK CLOSES

MIDDLETOWN, Del., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The body of Watson K. Betts, cashier of the closed Peoples National Bank of Middletown, was found today in Drawyers Creek, near here.

Betts left Middletown in his automobile several hours before the directors closed the bank yesterday, and last night his car was found on the bank of the creek, about four miles from here. It evidently had run into a tree.

The bank was closed on orders of the directors after a run had been started on the institution following what directors stated were false rumors. It was given out that the bank was perfectly solvent and that business was only temporarily suspended.

It was also stated that an examination of the bank's accounts so far as it had gone did not indicate any shortage on the part of any employe or officer.

Mrs. Fisher Seeking $1,800 to Pay Debts

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Aedita S. Fisher, the former Countess De Beaumont, who is collecting $400 a week alimony from Harry C. ("Bud") Fisher, cartoonist, as a result of her successful separation suit, filed a motion yesterday asking that her husband's property be sequestered so she may obtain $1,800 for old debts. Some months ago she asked the Supreme Court for $8,300 to pay doctors' and other bills and was awarded $1,800.

Elopement Foiled, Father Has Son Held for Fib

John Novack, 19, of Ravine street, Munhall, was held for court on a charge of perjury last night after his father, John Novak, Sr., testified that the son had lied about his age in obtaining a marriage license, Wednesday. Justice of the Peace T. F. Johnson, of Munhall, before whom the son was arraigned, set the bail at $500.

According to the father, the son and Anna Tomko, 18, of Trimble street, McKeesport, decided to get married over the objections of Novack's father. They came to Pittsburgh Wednesday and by misrepresenting their age, obtained a license to wed. They were arrested when they were en route to have the ceremony performed. The girl was discharged last night.

FIVE MEN GIVEN TASK OF SWEEPING OUT VICE AND GRAFT

District Attorney Samuel W. Gardner today ordered county detectives to police the city as well as the county, according to Chief of Detectives George W. Murren. The move is precipitated by testimony before the grand jury which, Gardner holds, implied the city police have been idle against law violations and susceptible to graft, Chief Murren said.

Gardner's order was issued following the conclusion of the first chapter in the county probe of graft yesterday, when the grand jury recommended for indictment 49 police officers and alleged racketeers, including Inspector Charles Faulkner and many other North Siders who had been indicted and subsequently acquitted in the Federal booze investigation.

FIVE MEN ASSIGNED

Chief Murren, of the county detectives, acting upon the District Attorney's order, said that he had assigned five of his 30 sleuths to city work, with the veteran James S. McGinley in charge.

In the future, Murren promised, complaints which reach the county authorities against booze joints, gambling, lotteries and such in the city will not be turned over to Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh's department, but will be acted upon by the county detectives.

Gardner was confident he had ensnared the "big fellows" among the 49 persons recommended for indictment by the special grand jury yesterday in its final presentment to Judge James B. Drew.

There were no prominent political leaders in the group, however.

Gardner declared the presentment

GENUINE PROGRESS MADE BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—If it were not for farm relief, tariff revision, the Kellogg-Briand Treaty and a few other matters, Congress might be at work today in the belief that its legislative broom would make a clean sweep at this session.

Both houses have made legislative progress lately. The Senate passed Boulder Dam yesterday and today was occupied with a bill to regulate the sale of goods manufactured by prison labor. The House, with the second of the appropriation measures, the $283,000,000 Interior Department appropriation bill, disposed of, had taken up the annual appropriation measure for the Department of Agriculture.

Off the floor, on the Senate side only the rules committee had work to do today, but the House had more activity in prospect. Its agriculture committee was still wrestling with the packers and stockyards act and three other committees, Indian affairs, rules and appropriations had meetings before them.

There was committee activity yesterday but events that drew the most attention were on the floor of the Senate. The passage of Boulder Dam caused general congratulation, and a resolution introduced by Senator Moses of New Hampshire general speculation.

This resolution was a four-point declaration of American rights and its author planned that it should be approved along with, or immediately following, ratification of the Kellogg-Briand treaty for the renunciation of war. It may mean bringing into the open the fight of the anti-war pact.

ICE MELTED, FLIGHT OF WILKINS BALKED

DECEPTION ISLAND, Antarctica, Dec. 15 (via Whaler Hektoria and KUP, San Francisco Short-Wave Radio Station).—The weather was such that all three whale catchers had to spend today in the harbor. This was done not unwillingly, for the Norwegians here, as well as their folks at home, and ourselves, too, respectfully pay tribute to Roald Amundsen's memory.

Extensive search has failed to reveal a suitable snow-covered field for a takeoff on skis with a heavy load, or, in fact, any sort of a load.

According to records and men visiting here for the last 10 years, the season this year is more than a month early. Normally the ice in the harbor would still be sound and perfect for landing either on wheels or skis. The ice has already disappeared.

Rain doesn't usually fall here until after the New Year. This year we had much rain and soft snow. It rained most in October.

Terhune Badly Hurt By Hit-Skip Autoist

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Dec. 15.—Hurled 30 feet by a speeding hit-and-run motorist, Albert Payson Terhune, author, was in his home here today in an apparently critical state. Physicians took X-rays last night in an effort to learn the extent of his injuries.

had named the actual heads of the lottery and liquor rings in the city.

FAULKNER NAMED

Among those the jury named were Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, Capt. John Loebig, Lieuts. John J. Lynch and John J. Callaghan, and Patrolmen William Moore and Howard Rosensteel. Mike de Rosa, East End politician, and Elliot Donnelley, ward leader on the North Side, were included.

The question of whether Alderman John J. Verona, whose charges inspired the graft inquiry, had "told all" was settled definitely by the presentment. The jurors made it plain that Verona had told them exactly nothing.

The presentment traced the sale of protection to racketeers to a vague "someone in authority," but in recommending indictments it mentioned none of those persons in authority. It declared that police magistrates had abetted law violation by returning fines, but it recommended none of those magistrates for indictment.

CIVIL SERVICE URGED

The jurors, by the hand of District Attorney Gardner, offered a suggestion for the divorce of police from politics by instituting a civil service system here.

Of collusion, law violation, peddling of gambling and booze privileges in Pittsburgh, they gave this bird's eye view:

'OFFICIAL BOOTLEGGERS'

"It was common knowledge among those who sold liquor at retail, in violation of the law, that if they purchased what was generally known as 'administration booze' from a designated official bootlegger, no interference would be had from the police.

THREE MAJOR LOTTERIES

"The investigation subsequent to the order of court continuing the present grand jury as an inquisitorial body developed that there were operating, openly and publicly, in the city of Pittsburgh and its environs, three major lotteries, namely, the Louisiana Lottery, the Pitt Lottery (which operated three distinct pools, known as the Pitt Clearing House, the Pitt Weekly and the Pitt Dime), and the New York Clearing House Lottery.

"In regard to the Louisiana Lottery, the evidence discloses that this lottery was operated by three persons as principals: Mrs. Mary Shaffer, 95 Castle Shannon road, Mt. Lebanon; Henry L. Recker, 107 Poplar Grove street, Carrick, and James C. Murray, of Philadelphia.

"We find that the various Pitt lotteries were operated by the following persons: W. L. Reinecker, L. A. McCormick, Joseph Lauer and Harry Halliday, doing business under the name of the Schenley Vacation Club. Their original place of business in the city of Pittsburgh was in a pool room conducted by the said Reinecker at 636 Herron avenue; later they moved to 805 Federal street and later to the third floor of the Kenyon Theater Building at 822 Federal street. In the basement of this building a bowling alley is conducted, which is owned and operated by the said Harry Halliday and Charles Faulkner, inspector of police on the North Side, city of Pittsburgh."

HOOVER WINS ARGENTINA'S GOOD WILL

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.
International News Service.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 15. — President-elect Hoover awoke today to find all the papers of this city lauding and acclaiming the speech delivered for him last night by Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher.

Mr. Hoover's speech stressed the fact that the world was on the brink of a "new era" of industry and democracy in which the Argentine would take an eminent place among the leaders of the western world.

The speech was delivered at a state banquet held at the presidential palace. Mr. Hoover did not make the speech himself because President Irigoyen has made it a hard and fast rule never to make a public utterance. He made no speech of welcome, so Mr. Hoover could not reply.

However, Mr. Fletcher, now ambassador to Italy, formerly ambassador to Chile and a popular figure in South America, read the speech Mr. Hoover had written en route to this city.

This morning various Argentine leaders in business, politics and other fields visited Mr. Hoover and conferred with him regarding the particular problems in their field of endeavor.

The President-elect was to attend a luncheon tendered by the intendente of the province of Buenos Aires after he had received his visitors.

The cream of the social and diplomatic elite of the "Paris of the Americas" will gather tonight at a gala performance given in Mr. Hoover's honor in the famous Colon Opera House.

FLIER HOPS U. S. FOR AWARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Lieut. James E. Dyer, of Rumford, Me., a Navy aviator, who flew across the continent from his Pacific Coast station to receive the Herbert Schiff safety trophy from President Coolidge yesterday, will be the last individual to receive it under a new rule promulgated by the Navy Department.

In future, a trophy will be awarded annually, not to individual pilots, but to the Naval airplane squadron making the lowest record of accidents to planes and personnel in proportion to the number of hours flown.

Lieut. Dyer is the fourth winner of the trophy since its award as a memorial in 1925. He established a record of 1,251 hours in the air during this year without accident to plane or personnel, as compared to the highest previous record of 865 hours.

SLAYER-SUICIDE'S BABY REARED BY FOSTER-MOTHER

MRS. E. L. GEORGE, FOSTER MOTHER, AND BABY

This is the 5-month-old baby of Mrs. Margaret Heldman, confessed slayer of Vernard E. Fearn, Canton coal dealer, and Mrs. E. L. George, Canton woman in whose charge the baby was placed when its parents quarreled.

MRS. MARGARET HELDMAN

This is the real photograph of Mrs. Margaret Heldman, 21-year-old Lorain (O.) mother formerly of DuBois, Pa., who confessed to her husband, W. O. Heldman, he says, that she fatally shot Vernard E. Fearn, Canton coal dealer. Dying from self-inflicted gunshot wound, she confessed the slaying to Sheriff Ed Gibson, Stark County, O. Coroner McQuate has today ordered the husband held for investigation.

At the first possible opportunity we will take the Los Angeles as a seaplane and with the biggest possible load make a trip into Wendell Sea.

An hour's sunshine encouraged us to pour 200 gallons of gasoline into the Los Angeles, now riding on floats, and stow into the machine again our personal belongings.

But before the second hour passed, long stratus clouds, looking like milky streams, streaked from the west across the sky. Closely following came storm clouds, wind and rain.

At the first indication of 12 hours' flying weather, I, with Crossan as pilot, will start into Wendell Sea; that is, if our machine will lift the load.

There we hope to solve this important geographical question:

"Is Graham's Land part of the Antarctic continent?"

Heavy Seas Pound Grounded Celtic

COBH, Irish Free State, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The liner Celtic, on the rocks at the entrance to Cork Harbor, was still being pounded by heavy seas today and the vessel's position was so precarious that salvage men could not go aboard. Their tugs had to take refuge in the harbor. Much cargo remains in the ship which it is feared is doomed.

PITTSBURGH INHALES LOT OF DUST IN FOG

Every time that Pittsburghers during the last four days of smoke and fog inhaled 10 cubic feet of nature's free ozone their throats and lungs became the receptacle for some 500,000 particles of dust, 250,000 particles of which were furnished entirely free by the steel mills of the district.

At any rate, this is the opinion of F. C. Houghten, director of the research laboratory of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, who, in co-operation with the United States Bureau of Mines, is conducting extensive experiments with air and its reaction upon the human body.

Mr. Houghten says the smoke and fog these four days was responsible for Pittsburghers inhaling just about ten times as much dust as enters their respiratory organs on clear days. About 50% of this dust is what he calls magnetic dust, compoed of iron or magnetic oxide of iron-blue scales blown from the steel mills. About half the dust a Pittsburgher absorbs with the ozone or 250,000 particles, is composed of coal dust, soot and street dust.

Mr. Houghten calculates that a person breathes about 10 cubic feet of air every 40 minutes. On clear days in Pittsburgh, with that quantity and in that time, a person absorbs only about 50,000 particles of dust.

Houghten's assertions are based on tests made with a highly-sensitive apparatus, known as a dust determintor. When air enters the apparatus by suction, it is first blown against a sensitive paper disc, which records the dust content of the air, while on a tube, the dust content is registered in particles.

The dust in the air of the last four days colored the paper discs nearly coal black, whereas on clear days they were of light gray.

To prove that Pittsburgh air contains about 50% of steel dust—magnetic oxide of iron—Houghten brought a quantity of dust collected from the air purification plant of the Carnegie Institute to his laboratory. To this he applied a magnet and, presto!—half of the dust was hugging the magnet.

Examination showed it to be magnetic iron or magnetic oxide of iron, commonly known as blue scales from rolled steel.

Ordered Held

W. O. HELDMAN

Coroner McQuate, Stark County, today has ordered the arrest for further investigation of W. O. Heldman, husband of Mrs. Margaret Heldman, suicide and confessed slayer of Vernard E. Fearn.

was taking her to the sheriff's office after she had confessed to him.

SHERIFF SATISFIED

Sheriff Edward Gibson declared he accepts Heldman's story that his wife shot Vernard E. Fearn to death Thursday, December 6, and night before last, one week later, killed herself as she rode with him toward the Stark county jail.

The father of the dead girl is ready to throw his life savings as a carpenter into the investigation of his son-in-law's past, particularly his actions and whereabouts since two days before the murder.

Members of Mrs. Heldman's family believe that she was not primarily responsible either for Fearns death or her own suicide.

Roberts, "Grand Old Man of Films," Dies

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—Theodore Roberts, veteran actor, beloved of countless motion picture patrons, died suddenly at his home in Hollywood yesterday afternoon. Death was caused by uremic poisoning, complicated by la grippe.

During the last five years Mr. Roberts' health was poor, causing him to retire from screen work for a considerable time. He made a vaudeville tour before returning to motion pictures with his famous cigar.

Born in San Francisco 67 years ago, the "grand old man of the screen" had just completed his first talking picture.

Final disposition of the huge estate will not be made until after the death of Mrs. Amanda Louisa Patten, the widow, who is to receive the total income during her life time.

At the death of Mrs. Patten half of the estate will go to the son and daughter of the Pattens or their heirs and the other half to charity. The Patten heirs are John L. Patten, son, and Mrs. Agnes Patten Wilder, a daughter.

Seven charities, to share equally in the $10,000,000 legacy, were listed as follows:

The Evanston Hospital Association,
Presbyterian Home, Evanston.
United Charities of Chicago.
Old People's Home, Chicago.
Visiting Nurses' Association, Chicago.

Secretaries, family servants and others were remembered with immediate cash bequests ranging from $2,000 to $10,000 each.

before embarking for the midnight sailing of the Berengaria.

A wireless from the Berengaria off Sandy Hook a few hours later said the big ship was going at full speed for England.

The tall, bronzed Prince enjoyed an automobile ride through the busy streets of the metropolis yesterday afternoon and smiled engagingly when a photographer's automobile rammed the fender of the limousine in which he was riding. He had tea at the home of Whitelaw Reid.

Few of New York's millions recognized the slender, ruddy young man in a derby hat and double-breasted blue overcoat as a scion of royalty.

KING HAS RELAPSE

LONDON, Dec. 15. — (AP.)—King George, worn by his long battle with illness, today was struggling bravely for a new foothold on life.

His majesty had something of a setback yesterday after his ordeal of Wednesday when he underwent two operations.

This morning's bulletin, alleviating somewhat the dismay felt last night, was:

"The King had several hours' sleep. The local condition is so far satisfactory. There is no increase in the exhaustion and the pulse remains steady."

The fact that His Majesty was able to obtain several hours' sleep was pointed to as a favorable sign; also the continuation of the steady pulse and slight improvement in the local condition.

Announcing at a Windsor gathering today that Princess Mary had canceled an engagement to be present, the dean of Windsor said:

"We only heard a short time ago that the princess felt she could not come. She did not want you to think that there was anything seriously worse at this moment, but of course the condition of the King is very grave and she does not care to be away too long from the palace."

ALL EFFORTS TO AMEND PLAN FAIL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. —Victorious after an unrelenting battle of seven years, the Boulder Dam bill passed the Senate late yesterday by a vote of 64 to 11.

Overwhelming was the approval in the hour of triumph as the opposition to the gigantic project, the most astounding ever conceived in America, dwindled to a mere handful.

Doubly important, too, was the final drive for passage, for the bill successfully withstood every assault to weaken it in its power provision safeguards.

The bill went through in a spasm of wild confusion. Amendments had been hurled in bewildering number and finally disposed of.

Then a vote was taken, presumably on the bill itself. It was 64 to 16. "It's all over" was the roar from the floor, and the crowded galleries cheered.

What had happened, however, was a vote on the Senate bill, which had been substituted as an amendment to the House bill. This substitution had been made when Boulder Dam first came before the session in order to simplify the differences between the two bills. Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, explained to the confused senators that the Senate bill as an "amendment" had to be first voted.

VOTE OVERWHELMING

Finally came the vote on the House bill, as amended by the Senate bill, with its overwhelming victory of 64 to 11.

All of this had the Senate dizzy for about five minutes.

The measure now goes to the House for approval of Senate changes. Finally it goes to President Coolidge for his signature. As it stands in final form, the bill provides for a 550-feet dam, which will impound a lake of 26,000,000 acre feet of water.

Under the measure the construction of the dam, the power plants, and a canal known as the "All-America Canal" to connect Laguna Dam with the Coachella and Imperial valleys of California, will cost upwards of $165,000,000.

The bill provides that all this money, however, eventually will be repaid the federal treasury by the sale of power and by land owners who benefit by the irrigation features of the All-American Canal.

At the start the government will advance $25,000,000 of the cost of the project as its duly obligated share toward flood control. After the other costs of the project have been amortized the profits will be used to repay the $25,000,000 flood control payment.

Passage of the bill by the Senate and House and approval by President Coolidge, however, does not mean that construction of the immense project will start at once.

STATES MUST APPROVE

The measure is not effective until the seven basin states of the Colorado ratify the so-called "Colorado River Compact." This agreement concerns water allocation and rights of the various states to the Colorado River.

In case seven states fail to ratify within six months, the measure is effective with six state ratifications.

There is still another provision. Before work on the project can start, contracts for taking the electric power which the dam will produce must be obtained by the secretary of the interior to guarantee the repayment of the cost of the project, with interest, within a space of 50 years.

It will take seven years to build the dam and the canal which will carry water to the Imperial Valley of California. A veritable city will be erected along the Black Canyon, 40 miles from Las Vegas, Nev., for the construction of the project.

The waters of the Colorado harnessed by the great dam will be apportioned between California, Arizona and Nevada so as to guarantee always 4,400,000 acre feet annually to California, 2,800,000 acre feet to Arizona and 300,000 acre feet to Nevada (all that Nevada can use).

In addition Arizona gets the 3,500,000 acre feet of the Gila River, a tributary flowing into the Colorado below the dam-site and the entrance of the All-America Canal.

Every safeguard and every precaution has been taken and every contingency provided for in the measure, which deals not only with the present, but with the water requirements of the semi-arid southwest for generations to come when every precious drop of the Colorado's waters will be needed.

temptation some times, with geese buying.

SECRETARY OF LABOR DAVIS would fix the coal problem with a coal trust, limited to 200 operators, cutting down production, giving the country only as much coal as it would buy at a fair price, with laws against trusts modified.

BY ALL means modify laws out of date. But you won't solve the coal problem unless you take care of workers.

What about them? Two hundred mine owners might be restored to prosperity. What about thousands of coal miners that don't know any other trade and would be thrown out of work? It may sound Bolshevistic, but somebody ought to think about them.

BATTLE LOOMS ON MODIFYING WAR PACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—On the hitherto clear blue sky of the Kellogg-Briand treaty there has appeared something that looks like a reservation cloud.

It was introduced in the Senate yesterday as a resolution by Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, and this is what it said:

"Resolved, That the Senate of the United States declares that in advising and consenting to the multilateral treaty it does so with the understanding:

"1. That the treaty imposes no obligation on the United States to resort to coercive or punitive measures against any offending nation.

"2. That the treaty does not impose any limitations upon the Monroe Doctrine or the traditional policies of the United States.

"3. That the treaty does not impair the right of the United States to defend its territory, possessions, trade or interests.

"4. That the treaty does not obligate the United States to the conditions of any treaty to which the United States is not a party."

The resolution's appearance brought expressions of divergent opinion on the treaty for the renunciation of war, its significance and the importance to be attached to letters by other world powers that accompanied their adherence to the pact.

Its author has indicated that it may be taken up Monday in committee along with the pact itself, but he does not expect to attach it directly to the treaty.

If the resolution passes it would be sent to all signatory nations along with the announcement of the final action by the United States on the Kellogg-Briand treaty.

Thief's Third Call On Bank Once Too Often

ENID, Okla., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Loren Norris, who mixes aviation and bank robbing, emulated the man who killed the goose that laid the golden eggs. The story of his downfall is that he held up the same bank at Breckenridge, Okla., three times within a period of two months.

Norris today was under sentence of 50 years in the penitentiary for the last robbery. He drew a recent sentence of 30 years for the first. He still faces trial along with an alleged accomplice, for the second.

Fred H. Pralle, president of the bank, testified that he became pretty familiar with the oft-appearing robber, and noticed his similarity to Norris, a former farm hand in the vicinity.

CHICAGO SCHOOL FUNDS LOOTED

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Investigation of what the Herald and Examiner describes as "a far-reaching conspiracy to buy and sell contracts for board of education building work" has been started by the state's attorney, following a "dictagraph investigation" conducted by the newspaper.

With the evidence obtained by the newspaper at their command State's Attorney John A. Swanson, and H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the school board, immediately began questioning several persons whose names were contained in the stenographic notes taken from the "whispering wires" by representatives of the newspaper.

Roy W. Ammel, a broker representing cut stone contractors seeking a share of the school building business, was named as the man who assisted in obtaining much of the evidence on which the inquiry is based.

The alleged irregularities had to do with efforts of a group of cut stone contractors to obtain work on school buildings which for a long time had been monopolized by terra cotta manufacturers.

Caldwell said that the whole administration of school money except only the educational fund, "seems to have suffered from the organized looting."

'MARINES LIKED IN NICARAGUA' --LE JEUNE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—American Marines on duty in Nicaragua and China were declared by Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune today to have won "the confidence and respect of all law abiding Nicaraguans," and to have "maintained extremely cordial relations with the Chinese officials and people."

"The military operations in Nicaragua," said Gen. Lejeune in his annual report as commandant of the Marine Corps, "have been highly successful and very gratifying."

There is "every evidence of the greatest friendliness" toward the marines by the Nicaraguans, he added.

The Nicaraguan National Guard being trained by American Marine officers and men, the report added, have in their turn "gained the admiration of the marines and marines and guards have learned to regard each other as comrades in arms."

Since May, Gen. Lejeune said, more than 1,000 "self-confessed" Nicaraguan outlaws have surrendered and "their morale has been so worn down by the activity of the marines that they are resorting only to hiding and avoiding contact."

THEFT OF GEMS FROM SINGER CONFESSED

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The mystery of the theft of valuable gems of Mrs. Marie Rappold, opera singer, in Hotel Langwell, New York, on the night of October 27, last, was solved here yesterday with the arrest of Steve Ream and his wife by local police.

Ream, whose right name is Michael Polisiski, 23, is a native of Plymouth, and left here several years ago. A second Plymouth man is also under arrest but the police refuse information regarding him.

Mrs. Ream was first arrested yesterday. She offered a ring valued at $1,500 to a local jeweler at about one-third less. The jeweler notified the police after she left the store and she was arrested. Taken to police headquarters she was grilled by detectives and gave information that led to the arrest of her husband in a rooming house, where the officers found quantities of jewels valued at $75,000, a shotgun and revolver and numerous newspaper clippings concerning the New York robbery.

Mrs. Ream at first insisted she was the daughter of a western millionaire who bequeathed her the jewelry which she was forced to sell in order to live.

Later she admitted she was the wife of Ream, whom she married in California about 18 months ago.

Ream frankly admitted the theft of the jewels. He stated, according to police, that he took the jewelry from a dresser in the room of Mme. appold while she and her daughter lay asleep, and denied using any drugs.

The prisoners are being held pending arrival of New York detectives.

In a farewell note she said her brother was killed in the World War, other relatives had died recently and she had suffered a "stroke."

Miss Kerr shot herself Thursday, but the tragedy was not discovered until last night. She was a student aviatrix, and had made a flight from San Francisco to New York as a passenger. She was the daughter of the late Walter Kerr, former president of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company. John B. Kerr, president of the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad, was her uncle.

Woman Wants to Buy Land 2 Nations Covet

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—There is a story that Daniel Webster, gesturing with one hand in a pocket, offered to pay the national debt.

An unidentified woman has telephoned the Bolivian minister repeatedly, offering to buy the territory in dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay. The last time she called, he told his secretary to tell her he had gone to war.

WOMEN SLEEP CALMLY, MEN RESTLESS

Women sleep more calmly than men, and babies are the most restless sleepers of all. Women fall asleep more quickly than men, but the baby takes his good old time to drift into slumberland.

Dr. H. M. Johnson, director of the Simmons investigation at the Mellon Institute, University of Pittsburgh, and G. E. Weigand, fellow at the institute, believe middle-aged husbands sleep more restlessly than their wives because they have more on their minds.

The most restless subject of the babes, men and women subjected to the "Motility Meter" tests so far has been young Mary Jane Work, a year and a month old today. When she was 16 days old, the two sleep investigators connected this meter to her crib, and since then continuously have measured her hours of sleep, her periods of calm and the extent of her restlessness.

She has had no fairly long stretches of rest until after midnight, and even then she has lain calmly only for short period.

WOMEN SLEEP WELL

Dr. Johnson says early childhood is less restless. Twelve children of an average age of three-and-a-half years were tested. The quietest of them lay calm for 10 minutes at a stretch, for the highest record. The average period of rest was a little over seven minutes.

College men, with 22 in the test, had an average of about 13½ minutes; middle-aged men averaged around nine minutes; their wives, about 11 minutes.

Of the same groups examined, Dr. Johnson concluded that young children took an average of 36 minutes to go to the land of nod, college men 18 minutes, middle-aged men 15 minutes and wives 13 minutes.

The "Motility Meter" was designed by Johnson and Weigand, and registers the reactions of the sleepers. Z. A. Simmons is financing the experiments.

PITTSBURGHER MODEL FOR "PIONEER" STATUE

PONCA CITY, Okla., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Towering high on a brick-red bluff above the Arkansas River, "The Pioneer Man" soon will take up his perpetual vigil here along with "The Pioneer Woman"—a symbol not only of the spirit of the state, but an everlasting tribute to the sturdy friendship of two pioneer millionaires.

E. W. Marland, wealthy Ponca City oil man, revealed to friends yesterday that he had chosen his friend and business associate, W. H. McFadden, to typify the companion piece to the statue representing the idealization of the woman of the plains which he erected recently at the entrance to his estate, a gift to the public.

The statue, already completed, is the work of Bryant Baker, who won the commission for "The Pioneer Woman" in competition with many of the leading sculptors of Europe and America.

The friendship which the statue represents had its inception 17 years ago when McFadden, then president of the McIntosh-Hemphill Steel Foundry at Pittsburgh, Pa., came West, broken in health and prepared to die.

He pitched his little tent on the prairie, a short distance from the 101 ranch. His only companions were Indians who stalked over from their village in the cottonwoods by the river, and Marland, who had been an acquaintance in Pittsburgh some years before.

Marland and George Miller, of the 101 Ranch, began drilling for oil, and when their funds ran low they went to McFadden. Though so weak from pneumonia that he scarcely could sign his check, McFadden filled out the necessary papers. By the time the well was brought in he was well along toward recovery.

Marland and Miller became wealthy and McFadden shared in their fortune, building his already considerable wealth into one of the greatest estates in Oklahoma.

The statue represents McFadden, in the garb of the pioneer, holding a musket, the butt of which rests against his right foot.

VESTRIS DISASTER LAID TO OFFICERS' INCOMPETENCE

CREW BLAMED WITH CAPTAIN IN REPORT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Lack of discipline, and officers who allegedly failed to "measure up," were blamed by the steamboat inspection service yesterday for the enormous loss of life in the Vestris disaster last month.

In a report carrying far-reaching recommendations for increasing safety at sea, Supervising Inspector General Dickerson N. Hoover also declared that the SOS call from the Lamport and Holt liner was "delayed too long."

He exonerated steamboat inspectors from responsibility for loss of life.

Hoover conducted a lengthy investigation of the liner's sinking, the life-saving measures, and the inspection of the vessel at New York before she sailed. He based his findings and recommendations on this and the investigation initiated by District Attorney Tuttle at New York. His report was made to Secretary of Commerce William F. Whiting.

"Without desiring to unnecessarily reflect upon the officers of the Vestris, it must be apparent to anyone with an open mind and approaching this disaster in a detached manner, that the officers of this ship do not seem to measure up to the standard that we would expect to be present in a British ship," his report said.

HITS INCOMPETENCE

"We must have in mind, therefore, so far as the steamboat inspection service is concerned, that first of all we must insist upon competent officers.

"It is manifest that the members of the crew of the Vestris were not well trained in lifeboat drill."

Hoover leaned to the view that "professional pride" had been a factor in the delaying of the SOS call by Capt. Carey, when that call would have meant incurring a huge salvage bill for his owners.

Pointing out that a ship which could have gone to the rescue was only 45 miles from the Vestris, but remained ignorant of the trouble because it had no wireless, Hoover recommended that "all sea-going commercial vessels" be required to carry radio-sending and receiving apparatus.

A probable reconciliation was effected in Judge Harry H. Rowand's Common Pleas Court yesterday when Marie Doutt, of Buffalo, contesting the divorce action of her husband, Theodore Doutt, 434 Third avenue, agreed to return to her husband.

DRUGGIST GETS 60 DAYS IN RUM SALE

Ben L. Moses, Shadyside druggist, was sentenced Friday by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson to 60 days in jail when he pleaded to six unlawful sales of whisky in the store of the Young Drug Company, formerly at Center avenue and Craig street. The same sales were the basis of the "padlock" injunction against the store, which was modified when Moses went into bankruptcy and the store was sold.

John J. Dillon, former city detective and deputy sheriff, was acquitted of a charge of interfering with and assaulting Prohibition Agent James B. Lewis on December 9, 1927, while Lewis was on official duty. Lewis testified, before Judge Nelson McVicar, he was attacked by Dillon in a club at 340 Third avenue. The defense was that Dillon was home, sick, at the time.

In addition to Moses, five others were given jail sentences ranging from 30 to 60 days when they entered pleas to violating the prohibition law. They were Joseph Przzgoda, Alphonse Zydal, Mike Mansky, Jack La Quata and Robert Zakravosky.

Twenty-five others, pleading guilty to violating the prohibition law, paid fines aggregating $3,100.

Among them were: Michael Kuzma and Joseph Williams, $300 each; Paul A. Van Allman, Walter H. Puterbaugh and R. Knox, $200 each; John M. STATE DELAYS WITCHCRAFT ACTION

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—No expression of a general policy in dealing with unlawful practitioners of witchcraft will be made by the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure until a more exhaustive study of the provisions of the law and several known cases has been completed, Dr. C. D. Koch, deputy superintendent of public instruction and acting secretary of the board, said yesterday.

He made this announcement when asked for a statement which he had promised and which was expected to contain the policy of the board with particular reference to witchcraft and "pow-wow" doctors.

Dr. Koch said that the board had considered several cases brought to its attention. He said, however, that publicity of these cases would only serve to defeat the board's ends in its movement to stop the practice of witchcraft.

There are several provisions of the licensure law, Dr. Koch said, under which "pow-wow" doctors may be convicted as unlicensed drugless therapeutists.

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The eighth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Physical Education Association opened here yesterday.

PRE-CHRISTMAS SERVICES IN CHURCHES

Pre-Christmas services will be held tomorrow in several churches, with special music and sermons pertaining to the Christmas season.

"How to Enjoy Christmas" is the sermon theme of the Rev. Dr. Norman C. Milliron, pastor, First Evangelical Church, Center avenue and Graham street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Milliron's morning sermon topic will be "The Demonstrationof Religion."

A pre-Christmas sermon—"What Will Christmas Mean to You?"—will be given by the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor, East End Christian Church, tomorrow morning. In the evening Dr. Ewers speaks on the subject, "John Bunyan, the Tinker of Bedford." The chorus choir, under the direction of Oscar Grosskopf, will sing at both services.

At Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, preaches tomorrow evening on "Christmas Angels and Others." Dr. Shelton will answer such questions as "Who Are They?" "Do They Help Us?" and "Should We Pray for Our Dead?" At the morning service his subject will be "A Great Saviour." The double and male quartet choirs, under the direction of John Austin Holland, will give a musical program.

"WHITHER AMERICA?"

The Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson speaks tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on the subject, "Whither America?" in Rodef Shalom Temple, Fifth and Morewood avenues. The sermon theme was suggested by the cartoon editorial in last Sunday's Sun-Telegraph, "We May Well Be Thankful."

Theodore E. Miller speaks tomorrow morning in the First Baptist Church, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, on the subject, "Paths to Peace." He also will occupy the pulpit at the evening service, speaking on the subject, "Like Sheep Astray." The Rev. Dr. C. Wallace Petty is pastor of the church.

The one hundred and fortieth anniversary of the Smithfield Methodist Episcopal Church, Smithfield street and Seventh avenue, which opened last Sunday, will close with the evening service tomorrow at 8 o'clock. At this service, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. G. E. Brenneman, speaks on "Our Needs." The Rev. Dr. Jacob S. Payton speaks at the morning service on "The Future and the Task of This Church."

A communion service will be held in Third Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning. In the evening the Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan, pastor, speaks on "The Fullness of Time."

"Why Men Fight" is the sermon topic of the Rev. Frank Edwin Smith in the First Unitarian Church, Ellsworth and Morewood avenues, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Governor Appoints Alderman, Two J. P.'s

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Stephen S. Kendrick was appointed alderman in the Ninth Ward of Williamsport by Gov. Fisher. The Governor also appointed two justices of the peace. They are Ward A. Proper, for the borough of Venango, Crawford county, and B. M. Mundorff, of Highrock, for the township of Chanceford, York county.

Youth's Confession Solves 20 Robberies

BLOSSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The arrest of the gang which perpetrated a series of 20 petty burglaries in this vicinity during November is said by police to be imminent. Anthony Kwatowski, 19, of Nanticoke, the first suspect arrested, accompanied police yesterday on a round of several of the places robbed and explained the methods used in gaining entrance.

Pay Raise for Erie Firemen Refused

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Voting unanimously against a pay increase of $30 a month for Erie firemen, city council yesterday made known it was "practically impossible to comply with the firemen's request now."

COUNTY BUDGET PAY BOOSTS UNDECIDED

No arrangements have been made for a meeting of the salary board to consider various wage and salary increases asked by department and bureau heads in the county budget, it was said this morning at the office of the County Commissioners.

These requests for increases are the only things left for the county commissioners to consider as far as the 1929 budget is concerned. The rest of the appropriation requests had been considered when the budget session ended late yesterday after finishing with the Department of Public Works.

Cuts netting over $160,000 were made in the budget of that department, most of the large ones, however, being requests for road improvements for which funds already have been set aside.

The road maintenance division was given $80,600 to replace worn-out equipment, after John A. Fugassi had appeared to outline the needs of his bureau. Five three-and-one-half-ton trucks, six one-and-one-half-ton trucks, seven small trucks, one bus, a 10-ton spreader, four 15-ton steam rollers and six snow plows are included in the list of new equipment.

It developed during the hearing that the road department is now doing three times the work done five years ago for practically the same amount of money, due, according to Norman P. Brown, to improved methods and better equipment.

New Trial for Girl Life-Termer Sought

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 15.—Petition for a new trial for Ruth Livermore, 22-year-old school teacher, sentenced to life imprisonment for burglary, was filed yesterday.

MONEY SQUABBLE ENDS HUNT FOR ANCIENT CITY

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Ruins of a supposed Phoenecian city in the heart of the Brazilian wilderness will remain undiscovered so far as the Brazilian-American expedition to the Amazon valley is concerned. The expedition, which reached this city November 12, disintegrated yesterday when four British and American members, who issued a newspaper statement disclosing a poor financial condition of the venture, were dropped formally from the rolls.

Jose Tozzi Calvao, director of the expedition, declared the action of the quartet constituted nothing less than revolt, and he said he had notified them that he no longer would be responsible for their expenses here nor for their return transportation to New York. A possible exception to the edict may be Eric Palmer, 16-year-old radio operator of the party.

Those dropped definitely were Norman Taylor, G. W. Carr and Roman Poznansky. In their statement they said that the director's announcement to them that the party was short of funds came as a complete surprise, as he previously had assured them their money was in New York.

Calvao explained in his counter statement that money which he expected from New York had failed to arrive. He also said that cooperation which had been promised by several Brazilian government departments would not be available for some time.

Youth Dies as Auto And Trolley Crash

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—Injuries suffered in a collision between an automobile he was driving and a stret car near Akron, resulted in the death yesterday of Howard Wilson, 19, who resided here until a few years ago. He was a son of the late Edward Wilson, of this city.

TRIBUTES PAID AMUNDSEN

Memorial services were held last night in the Little Theater at Carnegie Institute of Technology, for Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, by the Norwegian Society of Pittsburgh. More than 100 persons were present at the services which were held under the joint auspices of the society, the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology. It is the general belief now that Amundsen lost his life in his attempt to rescue survivors of the polar dirigible "Italia."

Brownson Favored For Superior Court

WASHINGTON Pa., Dec. 15.—Friends of Judge James I. Brownson, President Judge of the Common Pleas Courts of Washington county, are urging his appointment by Gov. John S. Fisher to the Superior Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge John J. Henderson, of Meadville, Pa.

Judge Brownsson has one more year of a 10-year term to serve in Washington county. He was elected after receiving an appointment from Gov. Brumbaugh following the death of Judge Robert W. Irwin.

Six Seconds For Safety

"Every year is leap year for the pedestrians," says the Pittsburgh Motor Club in its safety campaign. Through a medium of "wise cracks" the club hopes to keep the sorrow of death and injury from Pittsburgh homes this Christmas. Last year there were 25,775 persons killed in automobile accidents in this country.

James Bortz presented Maria Olszewska, contralto of the Chicago and Vienna operas, in recital at Carnegie Music Hall last night. In spite of the extremely classic makeup of the program, the audience was most cordial, and a bit unsatisfied with the scarcity of encores.

Olszewska is a very attractive woman, sufficient reason for a dispute with her Viennese rival. Moreover, she is a very good singer and musician as well. Her voice is unvaryingly dark, with little relief in so restricted a program. She knows all the requirements of good singing, and had she included an operatic air she might have demonstrated more fully her powers. This for the benefit of her audience. For the lovers of the German Lied she gave much that was most satisfactory.

For these art songs one usually seeks a voice with mixed colors. Lacking these, Olszewska interprets her songs through a declamatory rather than singing style. For Strauss and his difficult intervals this manner is sufficient; for Brahms, occasionally so; for her Wagnerian songs it was most effective. Then she did bring her legato into play in the "Staendchen," and in Korngold's "Liebesbriefchen," given as encore.

Although English is not easy with this singer, she was ambitious enough to learn a group of good songs in our language, and sang them all with a good swing.

Edward Harris played most efficient and musical accompaniments. It was altogether a most worthwhile recital, such as Europeans make sacrifices to hear.

OLD MUSICAL COMEDY SLATED FOR REPRODUCTION AS AUDIBLE PICTURE

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.

MORE and more of the old stage successes are being revived for reproduction as talking pictures. The latest is that Warner Brothers will Vitaphone the musical show, "The Time, the Place and the Girl." Its tunefulness made a big hit on Broadway some 20 years ago. In the leading role Betty Compson will follow up her big success in "The Banker." Grant Withers will be the boy and John Davidson has been recruited from the stage to be the "menace."

"The Hottentot" will be another Warner Vitaphone photoplay. This farcical comedy was a vehicle in which William Collier played the leading role on the stage. In the new movie, Patsy Ruth Miller will play the leading feminine role. This far no supporting cast has been signed. "The Hottentot" has been filmed as a silent picture.

Metro wins and everyone can rest easy again. You'll continue to see Jack Gilbert in photoplays bearing the lion's head trademark. Despite all the conferences, trips to New York, his own statement, and all the other things that made folks think John would pass up Metro and go with United Artists, the screen hero has signed on the dotted line with Metro. And everybody's happy. Hollywood's opinion is that Jack has shown excellent judgment in his final decision to remain with Metro. He has received every consideration from the organization, and it has contributed mightily to his success.

Briton to Make Three Pictures

HERBERT WILCOX, the British producer, has come to Hollywood with the idea of making three photoplays on this side. It is said that Marshal Neilan persuaded him to try production on our side of the pond. In any event, the redoubtable "Mickey" is to direct at least one of the three. It is titled "The Fog." John Loder and Mary Brian are to be the featured players. Loder, also a Briton, has been signed for the second picture, "Wolves."

There is small possibility of any but the big, wealthy companies making talkies. The cost is prohibitive. It is understood that a license to use sound equipment of one sort costs $50,000. This is for one of 20 pictures. Of this sum $20,000 must be handed over as a down payment. In addition the equipment costs $2,500 per day. And may be rented only for a minimum period of six days. Besides this enormous expense the producer must furnish all his own lights, sets, technical equipment and so on. It's an expensive proposition to produce a talkie.

Mary Nolan got her chance to make good. And she has taken full advantage of it. Mary had some tough breaks from life during the years she was known as Imogene Wilson. But now she is steadily winning her way to the top of the movie ladder. So much so that she is the most probable choice for Ronald Colman's leading woman in "Bulldog Drummond."

Huston Signs For Talk Film

FIRST of the stage actors to be selected by Director Millard Webb for his picturization of "Gentlemen of the Press" is Walter Huston. Huston numbers among his claims to theatrical fame the creation of roles in "Desire Under the Elms" and "The Barker." It is "just the type" for the newspaper photoplay, which is to be an all-talkie. Director Webb is preparing to shoot the picture and will begin early in January.

Nancy Drexel has joined the ranks of the free-lancers, her Fox contract having expired. Nancy is a Mamaroneck "discovery." She was selected by the German director for the role in "Four Devils." Since then she has been featured in two other Fox films, and has been starred in a Christmas special, "Forget-Me-Not," which is synchronized with movietone.

It's hard to tell from day to day just what is going on in the movies. When the producers, directors and actors, themselves, don't know, it is difficult for anyone else to determine. One day Paramount declares Lillyan Tashman, Taylor Holmes' son, Phillip, and several other important players would appear in "Genius Is Born." The next day it appeared that genius won't be born at all. In other words the story has been shelved. Not so good as a talkie, they say. And not so good for Mr. Holmes and Miss Tashman, either. It was Phillip's first leading role. And Lillyan refused no fewer than four other offers to play the part. Wouldn't be surprised if Lillyan cut Paramount off her Christmas list.

Rumor Unites O'Brien, Norma

AN odd rumor has it that Eugene O'Brien may appear again as Norma Talmadge's leading man. It doesn't sound plausible. Yet strange things happen in the movies. Eugene and Norma used to be a very popular picture team a few seasons back. But that was before "Camille" and Gilbert Roland.

Matt Moore is taking tests for a part in Mary Pickford's picture, "Coquette." The cast was reported all set. But they let Allan Connor out, and now Matt may get in.

Lon Chaney is ordering a couple of gallons of scars for his new film. Lon makes scars with a certain chemical solution which he permits to dry on his face. It is extremely inflammable by the way, and the make-up king uses great care to avoid matches or sparks.

The role of the bootlegger, Steve Crandall, in Universal's movie version of "Broadway," has just been handed out to Robert Ellis, husband of Vera Reynolds. This is the best break Ellis has enjoyed in some time. The part, created in New York by Robert Gleckler, offers wide opportunities.

Fire has threatened the lives of two popular beauties within the past day or so. Both Lupe Velez and Billie Dove suffered the experience of having their gowns burst into flame while playing in pictures. Fortunately neither actress was injured.

KIDNAPED GIRLS STILL HELD

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The fate of 22 of the prettiest young women of Jocotepec, who were said to have been kidnaped by bandits a week ago, still is unknown. Latest reports from the state of Jalisco said merely that Federal troops were in pursuit and the War Department here declared it had had no official report of the incident.

Although the War Department believes the reports were exaggerated, the returning travelers insist that the kidnaping was on a wholesale scale and that all Jocotepec is anxiously awaiting news of the girls.

In the troubled state of Jalisco, where Federal troops recently began an offensive against bandits and insurgents, the carrying away of women from towns together with other booty is not altogether a new thing.

5 IN GANG BARE ROBBERIES

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—With the arrest of four men and a boy, state police believe they have broken up a robber gang which has been active in the Latrobe and Ligonier districts. Those arrested are John Kozacik, 15, Mike Kozacick, Andrew Waldron, Harold Loucke and William Skacel, all of Derry township.

State police say the gang confessed to robbing the Seger Brothers Coal Company plant near Derry and stealing 200 sticks of dynamite and tools.

Democrat Contest On Beck Unlikely

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Announcement was made last night that there would be no contest of the congressional election in the First Pennsylvania district, in which Representative James M. Beck, Republican, defeated William J. Rooney, his Democratic opponent, by 118 votes, unless Rooney produces "convincing proof of large frauds" either in registration or the general election.

The announcement was made at the conclusion of a conference of city and state Democratic leaders.

Tire Print Bureau To Help Track Criminals

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Los Angeles county has opened an "auto tire prints" bureau in connection with its criminal investigation department here. The new bureau will print and record the treads of automobile tire, make tests in an effort to determine the print such tires would make under varying load conditions, and list the measurements of tires used on various makes of automobiles.

Deputy sheriffs said that many times the only clue to important criminal cases was the print of tire treads.

Dry Sleuth's Pose As Legion Man Traps Victim

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 15.—It was in the guise of a delegate to the American Legion convention here last August that a Federal prohibition officer tricked Robert Fike, a taxicab driver, into buying him a pint of liquor. Fike said that he thought he was just finished accommodating an ex-soldier visitor.

He was fined $200 and sent to the Fayette County Jail for four months.

AUTO WRECKS MONUMENT

ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—An automobile driven by Miss Elsie Lee, 19-year-old student, wrecked the Confederate monument in a downtown section here today. The car was overturned and Miss Lee buried in the wreckage, but she escaped with minor hurts.

The car raced through the downtown section before it crashed into the stone figure of a Civil War soldier. Miss Lee was taken to a hospital with a severe cut in her back and suffering from shock.

Her father, W. H. Lee, said the accident was due to a jammed accelarator. Miss Lee recently came home from Agnes Schoot College, where she suffered a nervous breakdown.

The automobile ran up the monument for 10 feet and knocked off the figure, which was given to the city by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

R. R. Trestle Burns; 22 Tugs Fight Fire

GREENVILLE, N. J., Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Twenty-two railroad tugboats, aided by fire apparatus from Jersey City, New York and Newark, fought a losing battle for two hours early today in an effort to extinguish a blaze that destroyed the Lehigh Valley Railroad bridge and trestle over the Bay Line, near here.

The fire started in a houseboat at anchor near the trestle. Fifty men on board fought to extinguish the boat fire, but soon lost control and jumped overboard, swimming to shore.

Beery Lays Fraud To Former Manager

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Indictment of Felix Young by the county grand jury was asked by Noah Beery, screen actor, when he appeared before the jurors yesterday, declaring that he had been defrauded to the extent of $1,500. Beery claimed that Young, as his former manager, had misinformed him about a movie contract, and had accepted the production company's check for $2,500, but remitted only $1,000 of this amount to the actor.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Comptroller General McCarl, who generally attempts to find excessive expenditures by government departments, yesterday censured Arthur G. Froe, recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, for failing to increase his own salary and the pay of his office assistants.

McCarl ordered Froe to increase his own salary by $400 a year and also the salaries of his office force, putting into effect the pay raises made effective under the Welch classification act last July 1.

Fay King Urges Preparedness While Careless Gunning Is in Vogue

SHOT-PROOF SPANGLES FOR EVENING WEAR
I ORDERED ME A COUPLA TAILORED SUITS FROM FROM THE STEEL MILL!
MANY A SURE SHOT HAS SKIDDED ON A BUTTON. WHY NOT HEAVY BUTTON TRIMMING?
STEEL-MESH UNDERVEST WORN BY GANGSTERS
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

THERE seems to be a lot of careless gunning going on these days. You never can tell when you are going to hob-nob with a bullet, the way these gun guys are pulling fire-crackers in heavy traffic.

It pays to be prepared!

I've read many times how a button had stopped a bullet, and it seems to me it would be a mighty good idea to make our dresses out of checked material and spend a little time sewing buttons in the squares.

These dazzling little dinner jackets that are so in style just now would be a cinch to make up along the lines of the steel mesh vests some gangsters wear.

CITY-OPERATED INCINERATORS ADVOCATED

Eight city-owned incinerator plants costing $2,300,000 would solve the problem of garbage and rubbish disposal, according to Attorney George P. Kountz, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, who appeared before Council yesterday to explain how he could save $1,000,000 of the approximate $1,170,000 annual refuse expense.

An alternate proposal, effecting about the same saving, was to insure keener competition among contractors engaged in that activity by extending the term of the city's agreement from one to five or 10 years and to invite bids for the entire city instead of dividing it into two sections.

Members of Council expressed disappointment in Kountz's admission that he could not pro rate his boasted total savings among the 28 suggestions he submitted to reduce costs.

Kountz explained he was handicapped in not having access to city records and was advised to avail himself of the privilege of every citizen of consulting the controller's books. John J. Schlipp, Jr., deputy controller, who attended the meeting, was requested to assist Kountz in consulting the records.

PRESENT SYSTEM DEFENDED

Attorney George R. Wallace, representing contractors now collecting refuse, replied to Kountz's 28 criticisms and left the impression that the existing system is not extravagant.

Wallace illustrated his contention of weakness in Kountz's suggestions by declaring that the latter proposed to remove with 80 vehicles the same tonnage that now requires 250.

President James F. Malone asked Wallace to have the present contractors study the proposal of collecting all garbage and rubbish in the city rather than confining the activity to homes.

Charles Anderson reviewed Council's efforts in the last 12 years to improve the service by offering long-term contracts to attract more bidders. None, except the present contractors, appeared, he said.

Malone produced statistics to show an average cost of 82 cents a month to remove refuse from the homes of Pittsburgh's 169,000 families. The city's unit price of 26.12 a ton was the lowest of 11 other large cities, ranging from $7 to $14.

RAIDS ON HOMES HIT BY JUDGE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Invasion of private homes on liquor warrants issued as a result of anonymous communications was denounced yesterday by Judge Gordon, sitting in the criminal division of Municipal Court.

"I am surprised at the policy adopted by police officers in this most outrageous campaign of invading private homes, tearing them practically to pieces in their zealous search for liquor, and all on a warrant issued by a magistrate because of some anonymous letter or phone call," said Judge Gordon.

"There is too much time wasted by the police department in this nonsensical business of raiding private dwellings for violations of the Volstead act instead of tracing bandits and gunmen and driving them from our midst."

Interior Fund Bill Approved by House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The House late yesterday passed the interior appropriation bill carrying approximately $285,000,000 for the far-flung activities of that department. The measure now goes to the Senate.

The measure provides $221,000,000 for Army and Navy pensions, more than $16,000,000 for Indian affairs and further millions for reclamation, national parks and education.

C. C. Phillips, Artist, Leaves Only $13,345

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Clarence Coles Phillips, commercial artist, who sometimes received thousands of dollars for a single illustration, left a net estate of only $13,345, it was revealed with the filing of a transfer tax appraisal. The entire estate, which had a gross value of $20,175, passes to the widow, Teresa Hyde Phillips, of New Rochelle.

TWO ROTHSTEIN WILLS BRING COURT FIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—A fight for the shrinking estate of Arnold Rothstein, now estimated at less than $2,000,000, is to be carried to the courts.

Beneficiaries under two wills, the last of which his widow and mother and father are attempting to have voided, were unable to arrive at an agreement.

Inez Norton, show girl friend of the slain gambler, refused to accept a lump sum in place of the interest of one-sixth the estate willed her.

WRITTEN ON DEATHBED

The will under which she is a beneficiary was signed by Rothstein as he lay dying in the hospital, too weak to write his full name and able only to make a cross.

The will which relatives wish to have declared his last testament does not provide for Miss Norton or several other persons named in the contested document.

BILLER MAY BE IN CITY

Rumors were current today that Hyman (Billy) Biller, sought on a murder indictment in connection with the shooting of Rothstein, was in hiding in New York and would surrender in the next few days.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, today was preparing evidence for a start Monday on the trial of Joseph Unger, arrested in Buffalo, as a member of the international narcotic ring Rothstein financed.

Rain fell in the Lake region, Ohio valley, Middle Atlantic states, Northern Plains states and portions of the Rocky Mountain states.

Temperatures are somewhat higher in the Southern Plains states, and slightly lower in the Central valleys and Plateau region.

WALSKA, BESET BY JINX, NEVER HEARD IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—(AP.)—The latest of a series of jinx-like misfortunes which have beset Mme. Ganna Walska, in private life the wife of Harold McCormick, in her every attempt to sing in Chicago now holds her abed with influenza.

The announcement, less than 48 hours before she was to appear in concert here, that the event was postponed indefinitely because the singer is suffering from influenza has recalled several other scheduled appearances in the home city of her husband which failed to materialize despite the perseverance of the diva.

Her first disappointment came when, in 1920, she was billed to appear in the title role of "Zaza" with the Chicago Opera Company. Just before the curtain went up, the announcement was made that Mme. Walska would not appear and that a substitute would take her place. She at that moment was on a train speeding to New York. No explanation was given.

Three years later, after she married Harold McCormick, a prominent backer of the opera here, she was again scheduled to sing in a concert at Orchestra Hall in 1923, but again the concert was canceled.

At the same time there were reports she would join the Russian Opera Company, then touring the country, to sing in the "Snow Maiden, but instead she left for San Diego to rejoin her husband.

In 1923 she appeared as Gilda in "Rigoletto" before a Parisian audience, but was not received kindly by the European critics. She had another venture with the San Carlo Opera Company in 1925, when the manager announced that Mme. Walska would not sing in Philadelphia, but would give a performance in Detroit. In Detroit the event was again postponed and the venture finally was canceled.

In September of this year there were reports that Mme. Walska was coming here for an operation on her throat. Then came the definite announcement of her concert at Orchestra Hall here—and today the cancellation.

PLANE CARRIER SETS SPEED RECORD

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The U. S. S. Saratoga, naval airplane carrier, yesterday attained a speed of 34.99 knots and established herself as the world's fastest large ship. The weather was ideal for the test.

Her sister ship, the Lexington, had set the mark at 34.8 knots some time ago, but when the Saratoga came into port here last night she had three brooms fastened to her masthead, signifying that she had swept all before her.

The record was established during the final acceptance trial off Point Vicente and with Capt. Franklin D. Karns, senior member of the board of inspection and survey, on board. While the speed record was being made, the Saratoga surpassed her sister ship by developing 213,000 horsepower, the Lexington' mark being 208,000.

As the Saratoga passed the U. S. S. Pennsylvania and the U. S. S. New Mexico, with Rear Admiral L. A. Bostwick on the first and Rear Admiral W. C. Cole aboard the latter, a salute of 13 guns for each admiral was fired. These ships returned salutes of seven gun for Capt. John Halligan, who commanded the Saratoga. It was the first time salutes had been fired under such conditions.

The Saratoga was launched in 1925 and cost $45,000,000.

Louise Latimer Reed Makes Her Bow to Society at Tea

TODAY, for the twentieth time this season, one of Pittsburgh's pulchritudinous is stepping forth to be presented to her parents' friends and to take her place in the social scheme of things. This debutante is Louise Latimer Reed, daughter of the W. Edgar Reeds, of Fifth and Amberson avenues, and she is being introduced at a tea which her mother is giving at home.

The Reed home is beautifully decorated for the tea. In the large drawing room, where the receiving line stands, there is an enhancement of palms making an effective background for the debutante's gardenias, and the two tea tables are placed in the dining room and the living room. On the dining room table is a tall Sheffield candelabrum with ivory candles, surrounded with briarcliff roses while the living room is adorned with a silver bowl of yellow roses.

Receiving with Mrs. Reed will be Louise's sister, Mrs. William H. Brown, Jr.; Mrs. Frank Elizabeth Reed, and Mrs. Reed's sister-in-law from Paris, Mrs. Albert Schmid, who is here for the debut. Louise is wearing a frock of pale green satin with a wide draped skirt and long, tight sleeves, and she is carrying gardenias. Mrs. Reed is gowned in orchid lace over blond satin, while Mrs. Brown is appearing in sand-colored georgette. Mrs. Schmid's gown is of black satin. The latter two are wearing corsages of orchids.

A group of Mrs. Reed's friends are serving as hostesses, including Mrs. Eugene W. Pargeter, Mrs. A. Fleming Fell, Mrs. Samuel Hazlett Church, Mrs. Harry J. Miller, Mrs. Robert E. Maxwell, Mrs. Oliver D. Nicola, Mrs. Benno Jungsen, Mrs. Allison R. Maxwell, Mrs. G. Cooke Kimball, Mrs. J. Albert Nicola, Mrs. Roy A. Hunt, Mrs. Thomas Allen Machesney and Mrs. William Thaw. WIDOW FREED IN KILLING

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances Kirkwood, charged with first degree manslaughter in connection with the death of her husband, Dr. Glen Kirkwood, a veterinary, was acquitted in Queens County Court last night by a jury which deliberated a little less than five hours.

Kirkwood died last August from stab wounds inflicted during a struggle between himself and his wife in the kitchen of their Sunnyside, Long Island, home. The wife, who was the principal witness in her own behalf, testified that she had seized the knife with suicidal intent and that the wounds were accidentally inflicted as her husband struggled to disarm her.

Other witnesses verified that the stabbing was the outcome of a quarrel between the husband and wife after she had accused him of having been attentive to other women.

Hotelmen of W.Va. Want 13 Months In Calendar

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The 13-month year is favored by West Virginia hotel men.

The proposal to have a calendar with one more month than the present 12 adopted internationally was unanimously approved by the delegates at the annual convention of the West Virginia Hotel Association here yesterday.

The new calendar, speakers said, would be advantageous in many ways to hotel owners and managers.

Plans also were discussed for advertising the state to tourists.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Madge Is Greatly Thrilled As Michael Stops Her Runaway Horse

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, pretty and young, awakens on the morning of her twenty-first birthday rebelling against the dinginess of the New York apartment she shares with her father, an unsuccessful inventor. She craves thrills and the joys and luxuries of life. She meets handsome Carroll Dudley, artist and aviator, at a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend. He pursuades her to pose for him and after professing his love for her, which she accepts, it develops that he is already married. Added to this he exhibits her picture at a party in violation of his promise not to do so. Madge, blind with rage, cuts the canvas to ribbons and rushes from his studio. She is struck by the automobile of Michael Winchester, scion of an old and wealthy New York and Virginia family. In the hospital she finds herself surrounded by every attention the Winchester millions can give her, and more too, as young Winchester falls in love with her. Winchester sends her to Atlantic City to recuperate. When she returns Winchester begs her to dine with him at his home, after which he proposes to her. She finds herself in his arms, consenting, if he wants her, knowing that she doesn't love him. She is still in love with Dudley. The wedding was a great event. It was a great moment in the life of thrills that Madge once longed for until the moment of departure on the honeymoon. From the window of the car she waves to the cheering throng and then not five feet away meets the bitter smile of Carroll Dudley.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THE next morning she rang for Anna, quickly accustomed to the service rendered the rich, and having delighted in the tiny bathroom with its sparkling freshness, she returned to her room to be dressed. When she emerged into the drawing room she was radiantly lovely in a little lavender silk sports suit, and a trim leghorn hat.

Michael greeted her gayly, and while they breakfasted Madge gave a little cry of delight.

"Oh, look," she cried, "oh, look!"

Into the station yard came a high-swung barouche with the Winchester arms on its panels, drawn by a magnificent pair of coal black horses. Behind it, almost as magnificently horsed, was a small station omnibus, the colored servants evidently delighting in the pageantry, as were the two dalmations who trotted solemnly behind the carriage.

"You like it, my sweet?" Michael asked, smiling at her obvious delight. "I'm glad!"

During the drive through the smiling Virginia countryside, she put this thought from her in her interest in the scenes of Michael's boyhood. They finally entered the park surrounding Winchester Manor, and there through the trees Madge caught sight of the huge Colonial mansion, eloquent of days long since gone by. Here, he told her—at this very spot—his great-grandfather had received Gen. Washington, and at that tree over there, Lafayette himself had stood reviewing the handful of troops raised by Winchester's ancestors.

It was, Madge felt, almost a musical comedy reception that awaited her. There seemed to be no end to the colored servants, with their black smiling faces, and flashing white teeth. It was obvious that they looked on Michael as a kind of little local emperor, and she noticed that he called every one of them by name.

And when, after lunch, she demanded to see the estate, Michael was delighted. Madge ran up the wide center staircase to come down again in white whipcord breeches with high black kid boots.

With her arm through Michael's she walked, childishly happy, toward the stables, where the grooms were presented.

And the horses? The beautiful sleek creatures, who stretched their graceful necks over the half-doors of the boxes as though craving attention—and apples!

Among them was a little gray Arab mare, with the wide-open nostrils of her breed, the muscles on her neck quivering with nervousness.

"Oh, what a darling!" Madge exclaimed. "Please, Michael. Please may I have her for my very own?"

"Sultana is the devil to ride, my dear, with a terrible fault! Got a mouth like iron, and no mount for a lady."

"She sure am not, sah," put in Joe, the head groom. "She suah am one nasty debbil. But the Gen'ral head," and he indicated a big, raking chestnut with a lovely head and very kind eyes, "he am just made for little missus to ride. Ma'am, you take an old nigger's word foh it—an' let me put yoh saddle on General heah."

But Madge had a streak of obstinacy in her nature. She pouted like a spoiled child.

"Michael dear, I want to ride that other horse, Sultana."

And because he could refuse her nothing, and because she said she could manage any horse, he gave way to her, and they left the stable yard with Sultana dancing delicately over the gravel road, while Madge called out gayly that she was a perfect lamb.

Michael, mounted on a splendid-looking sorrel, edged his horse to her side.

They rode for a few miles over the broad acres which had been in Michael's family since long before the Revolution, and although at times Madge had difficulty in controlling the high-spirited mare, still she remained the mistress.

But as they turned toward home again along a twisting woodland path, Madge let out her mount a little for a gallop.

"Mary" Michael called to her. "Don't give her her head, Madge! She may get away from you!"

He had spoken too late, for at that instant Madge realized that she could not hold Sultana. A moment more of fruitless straining on the reins, and meanwhile the pace had become a hot one, and Madge discovered that Sultana had the bit between her teeth. She could do nothing but sit and ride for it, and she was terrorized.

They flew down the path, Madge having to bend low on the mare's neck to avoid the overhanging branches, while she could hear Michael thundering after her.

Clear of the wood, Sultana increased her pace as she turned to cross a wide sweep of meadow. Madge could not even guide her. And suddenly she saw, directly ahead of her racing mount, the steep sides of a little creek . . .

CHAPTER XV.

AS Madge's runaway bolted headed for the creek bank, Michael, with cold horror in his heart, put in his spurs and rode as he had never ridden before.

His horse's head reach Sultana's flank, forged ahead—and the next instant Michael had grasped Madge's reins in his right hand. A second later, and he had leaped from his galloping horse and, suspending his full weight on Sultana's bridle, was being dragged along.

It was over in a moment, a dreadful moment of anxious fear for Madge. The Arab slowed—slowed, and stopped so suddenly that Madge was nearly thrown.

That night, long after dinner, Madge tried to express a little of the gratitude and admiration that was in her heart for Michael.

"It was the bravest thing I ever saw," she confessed.

"My dear, don't exaggerate and make a hero out of me when you read every week of a New York cop doing as much!" Michael dismissed it.

She was vaguely disappointed, and presently went upstairs to her room.

Michael found himself walking down a twisting lane. The night was insufferably hot and a storm threatened.

Through the trees he saw a light gleaming from a window. On perceiving it, he quickened his step. Then his old tutor, the Reverend Donald Borden, had not yet retired.

Michael rapped and the 70-year-old minister opened the door.

"Michael!" he cried.

"Padre!" exclaimed Michael, using his pet term of endearment for the old chap. The two gripped hands.

"I was coming to see you tomorrow, Michael," the padre remarked as they sat down. "Just giving you twenty-four hours to show your bride about the place." He paused and looked searchingly at his younger companion. "What's up? Something troubling you, my boy?" He laid an affectionate hand on Michael's shoulder.

"Have to talk to someone, Padre," Michael smoked in silence a few moments before he continued. "I do not quite know what to do. I love her, Padre—more than I can tell."

"Naturally, my boy—but what has happened? A lover's tiff?"

Michael sighed. "Deeper than that, Padre. I tell you things I can tell no other man. But Madge—"

"Well?"

Silence again. And then Michael went on. "She was perfectly straight with me; she is truth itself. Before we were married she confided in me that she had been fascinated by a fellow utterly unworthy of her."

"Then, naturally, she no longer loved him?" the old man asked, his keen eyes on Michael's face.

"No, she told me, and I know she told me the truth, as she saw it at the moment—that she felt nothing but contempt for him; he had lied to her in every conceivable way. Then as we were coming away from the reception, there was a crowd, and Madge nearly fainted. She had seen this fellow watching her, and she was tremendously affected, Padre. It was—it was a frightful blow to me."

"You said nothing—at the time, I mean?"

"No — just begged her to put him from her mind, and was careful to talk of other things. But Padre," and Michael spoke with tremendous earnestness, "I am afraid Madge deceives herself. Get that straight—she is not deceiving me, or trying to—but she deceives herself in believing that she is cured of this fellow's influence. Subconsciously she still craves him—and I found it out by accident."

"Something more than the fact that she was upset at seeing him as she drove away from her wedding?"

"Just Be Yourself," Says Cupid

"COME on, Cupid," says the girl who cannot be herself, who thinks all the GIRL-WORLD, save herself alone, fascinating, amusing, beloved, sought-after, glorified, remembered, "come on, Cupid, and tell me, Faery King of Love, what type shall I be to win love and that oh-so-wonderful look of devotion in the masculine eye? I MUST imitate, you see—for I couldn't make a ripple just as I am. And I want to rock the boat! I want to be a shiny star, and I am sadly sure—oh, deary dear—that I am just a dull piece of glass! Whose hair shall I fix mine like—who walk like—dress like? Garbo or Pickford? Marilyn Miller or Marion Davies, or that new girl, next door?"

And Cupid grumbles a bit of slang—"Be yourself!" This young and ancient Cupid is a master of flowery language, and he hates slang; but here it fits! "Be yourself," says he. An improved self—yes—nicer and nicer—but still yourself. Don't be the girl who changes personalities with every new moon, who imitates all the whole world of girls, and is neither one thing nor the other; neither dove or peacock, wren or bird-of-Paradise, wild swan or humming bird. A mixture, never one thing long enough to make an impression. An impression—the desire of her heart! The girl who cannot believe in herself. Her nose—her eyes—her hand and foot—her frocks—and the intelligence behind her face may rate better than these things belonging to the procession of girls she longs to be like; but she handicaps them all in the fog of restless, undecided imitation.

Don't be that girl. For, observe—the very girls who stand out, the girls you are sure are more charming than you, are themselves; distinct pictures, wholly unlike each other.

Believe an artist; for it is their business to know what is beautiful and compelling. And they will all tell you that there are a million—and more millions—of kinds of beauty—not just one; and that it is better to be an honest, wholesome type, of intelligence, sweetness and simplicity, if that is your REALITY, than to be an imitation vamp!

Beauty was never born in any one country, and her noses and eyes are legion.—NELL BRINKLEY.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Minerals Essential for Perfect Teeth

NOT long ago I found myself at the same dinner table with a mother and two daughters. The young women had dazzlingly white teeth. I think I never saw more perfect teeth.

DR. COPELAND

I could not help glancing at the mother's teeth. She had them all. They were the same shape as her daughters', but gave evidence of much dental work.

The mother belonged to a generation that learned late in life how important a member of society the dentist is. Of sourse, too, dentistry was very crude in her childhood.

Thank goodness, we have learned that the teeth can be preserved. By proper care they will last us throughout life.

In the public schools of the larger communities there are school doctors and school nurses. They are watching the children. Among other good things they insist upon they demand that the youngsters shall care for the teeth. The "toothbrush drills" are common. The teachers take pride in the physical welfare of the pupils and count this of great importance.

What the teeth are to be depends on the care given the baby from the day of its birth. The quality of the milk, and its abundance, will determine the quantity of lime and phosphorous without which there can be no dependable bones and teeth.

"Lime starvation" is responsible for many of the dental defects from which we suffer. Without lime there cannot be good teeth. The evil of excessive candy eating is not the direct effect of the sugar upon the body. It comes from the fact that the candy eating satisfies the appetite and keeps the child from taking milk and other mineral carrying foods.

It is not the young child alone who gets bad effects from lime starvation. Big boys and girls, young men and women, old men and women—all must have ceaseless supplies of minerals or else trouble is on the way. Not only bad teeth, but also other serious ailments, can be traced to the neglect of proper foods.

No one should neglect regular trips to the dentist. The earlier they start and the more frequent they are the less pain or discomfort will be the result. It is easy and painless to prevent dental defects. The way to have beautiful teeth is to keep them in their original state.

Unfortunately, it is very rare indeed for ap erson in middle life to have teeth without fillings, or their need. Without discussing the reasons why, we must face the fact that teeth will decay. If attention is given immediately, a tiny filling will be enough. If you neglect a cavity for months and months, it increases in size. The tooth is doomed unless the dentist is consulted.

Nobody can be well if the teeth and gums are diseased. The poisons will undermine the health.

In addition, if the teeth are decayed and sore, there will be neglect of proper chewing of the food. This will result in undernourishment and impaired health.

Make your dentist your friend. Consult him regularly — several times a year.

Horoscopes

Sunday, December 16

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows but little activity outside the routine preoccupations and avocations of the day of rest. There may be some stir in the mystical, spiritual or occult activities, but in a general way it is admonished that a tendency to strife, rashness and tumult be held in subjugation.

Those whose birthday it is may expect but a routine or mediocre state of affairs during the year. There may be some constructive deals with large corporations or combines, but be careful in affixing the signature to any writings. The tongue and temper should be well governed.

A child born on this day may be disposed to contention and strife, with an inherent vexation of spirit, inciting to impetuosity and turmoil. It may have some diplomatic qualities or incline as well to curious adventures or research.

Monday, December 17

WHILE the general trend of events for this day, according to the astral mutations, will be favorable, yet it must be heralded as a day of routine progress with little of moment arising. Things will advance steadily, but this should not be negatived by a restless, depressed or forlorn attitude nor by irascibility.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of steady, but slow, progress, with affairs advancing favorably in accustomed grooves. The inclination to restlessness, gloom and despondency should be subdued, as should irritability of temper.

A child born on this day may have a fair equipment for success and steady progress in life and should be well placed in employment, industry or business.

Hope and fear alternate chase our course through life's uncertain race.—Scott.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Signing Your Name

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am going abroad and would like to know under what name I should travel. My husband is not to accompany me. I generally sign my name Mary Middlename Smith, while my marriage name is Mrs. Paul Smith

2. How should I have my visiting cards engraved? Also would it be proper to have my address printed below?

ETIQUETTE READER.

WHEN you are traveling, you should use your formal name, Mrs. Paul Smith. Since your husband is not accompanying you, it is even more important that you use your formal name (unless, of course, there is some reason why you do not wish it). For instance, you sign a hotel registry in this way:

Mrs. Paul Smith, San Francisco.

2. There is only one form of name that is correct for a visiting card, and that is the formal name. Be sure to have your name engraved Mrs. Paul Smith, and if you use a middle name, have it spelled out, not abbreviated.

Yes, it is the best form and taste to have your street address engraved on a visiting card. Have it engraved in the lower right corner, in letters of the same type but smaller than those used in the name.

Office Etiquette

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

What do you think about the use of first names in offices?

C. E.

I AM overwhelmingly against it. So strongly do I feel about it, that I believe that two sisters should never, during office hours, call each other by their first names. And no employer should, during business hours, allow the use of first names in his department.

When an outsider enters an office and hears, "Get that letter out for me, Marion," or "Jane, take that call, will you?" or "Clara, did you see where I put that file?" he gets a most unpleasant impression of that office.

I have never been able to see what is gained by this use of the first names. Certainly it saves no time, and certainly it adds no more friendliness than does abiding by business courtesy during business hours. Such slovenliness in business conduct gains nothing but slovenliness in business efficiency.

I know a large and famous interior decorating establishment run by two most delightful and well-bred gentlemen. They share an apartment over which the exquisitely-cultivated mother of one presides. The minute they enter their establishment they cease calling each other by their first names, and address each other as "Mr. ——" as dignified business courtesy dictates.

Madge and Lillian Take Up the Problem of Edith Fairfax

I KEPT a wary eye upon my husband while he and Harry Underwood were vying with Philip Veritzen in exploiting for Junior's benedit the marvelous toy which my employer had brought to my little son. I knew that his resentment against Philip Veritzen for the flamboyant extravagance of the gifts was only smoldering, kept down for the time by the irresistible cheeriness of Mr. Underwood and his own involuntary interest in the intricate mechanism of the toy.

Would he break out into some flagrant discourtesy before Mr. Veritzen should take his leave? This was the fear which kept me tensed like a violin string while the interested chatter concerning the toy swept over me. Ordinarily, I should not have feared for Dicky, because he has the same horror of scenes which I have. But I realized that his rancor against Philip Veritzen was fast becoming an obsession with him.

I think Katherine sensed my fear. At any rate she came to the rescue a good minute before the 10 she had named.

"I am afraid, Mr. Veritzen, that Junior is getting tired," she said.

My employer sprang to his feet immediately, as did Harry Underwood. But Dicky remained sitting by Junior's side. Indeed, he could not have pulled away, for the boy, as is his custom, had his father's hands tightly clasped in his own.

"I will go at once," Mr. Veritzen said. "Good-bye, Junior. I hope they will let me come to see you soon again."

"Gee! I hope so, too," Junior said fervently, with such evident boy-like anticipation of a future repetition of the present shower of gifts that Mr. Veritzen and Mr. Underwood laughed outright. But Dicky's smile and mine were distinctly perfunctory.

"Will it hurt him to have me stay awhile?" Dicky asked Katherine. "Madge, you can do the honors, can't you?"

There was a perceptible sneer in his voice which I feared Mr. Veritzen would notice. I guessed that Harry Underwood caught it when he dropped his hand upon my shoulder.

"Let me, Lady Fair," he said. "I want a powpow with old Phil, and the real reason of my strolling into the room a few minutes ago was to give you a message from Lil. She wants to see you about something or other, Marion's duds, I imagine. But of course, as soon as I caught sight of that contraption I forgot all about it. But for the love of Pete, go and find out what she wants and save me being boiled in oil."

I was only too thankful for the opportunity to dodge both the speeding of my guest and an interview with my husband, and I lost no time in going to Lillian's room. At my knock she came hastily to the door and drew me into it.

"I've been dying to get hold of you ever since that long-distance telephone," she said, "but you've been busier than Lindbergh when the reporters catch him. But tell me, wasn't that Edith Fairfax on the telephone?"

"Yes," I returned laconically, and she shot a shrewd glance at me.

"Say the word, old dear, and I'll close the well-known rosy lips tight. But if—"

"Please!" I said indignantly. "When have I ever preferred your silence to your comments?"

"Never that I know of," she promptly retorted, "which only proves my contention that there's always been a vacancy sign in your upper dome. But I'm glad you're in a receptive mood, for I'm wild to know what darling Ede is after."

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

—DOYLE BATTING FOR BOYLE—

EDUCATIONAL authorities do well to encourage high school bands. The social and athletic activities of the student are enhanced by the musicians. Everybody seems to like a band, but few care to put out the efforts necessary to organize and develop a group of youngsters to such a point where the boys' selections really constitute music. There is a certain distinctiveness about band music that finds a response in the young and old. In the smaller cities and towns the yearly appearance of the minstrel bands, which played twice on the day of the minstrel show, always were looked forward to in happy expectation.

W. C. Fields, Neil O'Brien and Honey-boy Evans never failed to work up the populace with their crack musicians. And the artists of those days were qualified to take parts in the show. The ability to do at least two things well was required of a minstrel man, hence the birth of the expression, "double in brass."

* * *

CHARLEROI HIGH SCHOOL is fortunate in having a remarkable band. One of the lads in this outfit is so tiny, it is reported, he has to call upon another student to carry his horn. The members of the Charlerol band apparently get a big "kick" out of their practice sessions, for they show up like veterans when they "do their stuff" in public.

Perhaps you will get a laugh out of an incident that is supposed to have happened in connection with a boys' band in Sharon. My home town was noted for its "Citizens' Band" of many years ago. One of its most accomplished members was James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor. James J. didn't have any high-falutin' titles in those days. He was employed in the puddling mills like most of the other boys in the band. It was "Greenie" Davis then, and "Bumper" Davis, a younger brother of James J., also was a star in the band. It seemed that every boy in town had a nickname.

AS LONG as this organization was together, Sharon had a fine band. In due time, of course, the outfit passed out. Years later one of the oldtime musicians saw the need of a band so he got together about 50 boys. Eventually they secured instruments and practice sessions began. The leader made fair progress with the kids, who represented five or six nationalities.

* * *

Came the Fourth of July and with it the first engagement for the new band. It was hired to play in the big parade. Shortly after the march got under way the lads were led in their first selection. It was a beginner's piece, yet the execution was none too good. But the leader encouraged the youngsters.

"That was fine, boys," he advised them. "Get ready now, we're just about to pass the reviewing stand and we will play "The Star-Spangled Banner."

"Oh, hella, boss," an Italian lad piped up. "I joosta feeneesh playin' that!"

THE A. E. F. was replete with crack bands. Regiments made up largely of Pittsburgh district boys were among those possessing fine musicians. The members of the Three Hundred and Twentieth Infantry Band decided they would escort their regiment as close to the trenches as they could get after the Doughboys received the order to move into the front line. The musicians were still present and playing jaunty tunes up to a point fairly close to the lines. At this time the outfit which the Three Hundred and Twentieth was relieving started to march back from their positions to a rest area. They were hungry and torn, but still with a dash of the morale that made the Yanks stand out in the warfare in France. As the Three Hundred and Twentieth finished a selection one of the relieved soldiers yelled:

"Hard luck, fellows—we had a band when we went in!"

JERSEY KILLER "MIGHT HAVE" SLAIN WOMAN

International News Service.

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 15.—Peter Kudzinowski, confessed slayer of two children and an 18-year-old youth, was questioned by police early today in the killing of Mrs. Marguerite Stanton in Newark, N. J., when she attempted to prevent her son from being kidnaped.

"I don't remember it, but I might have done it when I was drunk," the slayer was quoted by police as replying to the charge.

Sergt. Crumley, of the Newark police, in company with 14-year-old Dewitt Stanton, the sloan woman's son, questioned the prisoner.

At 3 o'clock on the morning of July 4, 1926, the Stanton boy was seized by a man who had entered the window of his bedroom. The boy screamed, and his mother came running in. The stranger drew a pistol and fired once, wounding the woman mortally—he then escaped, leaving his hat behind him. Police said the hat fits Kudzinowski perfectly.

The Stanton boy said that the man who had tried to attack him was about the same size and build as Kudkinowski, and like the prisoner had a soft voice.

Kudkinowski, asked pointblank whether he had committed this crime, answered, according to the police, "I might have done it when I was drunk. I don't remember it."

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.

Say, didn't I always tell you that the Prince of Wales was quite a boy? He can do a whole lot besides look good and dance. He stood responsible for that operation that his own younger doctor performed. If he had been allowed to come in an airplane, he would have saved his father two weeks earlier.

I do hope we are smart enough to stay out of this boundary dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay. Any nation that will argue over land as cheap as land is today ain't in their right mind, anyhow.

Oklahoma and Texas been arguing over a boundary and Oklahoma won. We made Texas take the land. I wish my neighbor would want my farm. He would certainly get it.

HARPSTER REGRETS LOSS OF STRONG

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Soccer Baseball Aid Bucs to Drop Others Outfield Is Uncertain

Shifting of McCurry Hargrave to Minors Florida Fistic Scene

PIRATES MAY TRY FOOTBALL AGAIN

WHY not add soccer football to the routine of work followed in the preliminary stages of spring baseball training? The opening of the soccer season in Pittsburgh and elsewhere draws attention again to the merits of that splendid game as a vigorous exercise, and the more that is seen of it by experts on physical fitness the stronger becomes the opinion that a course of it would prove decidedly helpful in putting diamond athletes in shape for their playing period of almost six months.

Donie Bush.

It is the intention of some local soccer men to recommend the idea to Manager Donie Bush, of the Pittsburgh club, and, as the Pirate boss himself is known to have a strong liking for the sport, it is within the bounds of possibility that when the old and new members of the Buccaneer crew gather at the Paso Robles training camp next spring they will be handed a soccer ball or two to kick around for a fixed time as a regular part of their daily workouts during the early portion of the conditioning program.

THE proposal to make that type of football play a part in the training of baseball players is not new, even in so far as the Pittsburgh club is concerned. Fans of this district will recall that soccer figured in the preparatory activities of the Corsairs in their practice camp while they were playing under the managership of Fred Clark more than 15 years ago.

Lefty Leifield, then a pitcher on the Pittsburgh staff, and who, since the close of his hurling days, has served as coach for the St. Louis Browns, and Detroit teams in the American League, was responsible for the adoption of the plan. At the suggestion of the southpaw, Manager Clarke put a soccer ball in play, and the conditioning results were so gratifying that it never has been clearly understood just why the feature was not retained as a regular spring fixture.

IN LINE with the old Leifield plan, now likely to be taken up again, a St. Louis soccer man thinks so highly of the game as a conditioner that he believes diamond performers should play it not only in the spring training camps, but even during the winter.

"Instead of letting their muscles rest all winter the ball players could keep them in shape by engaging in soccer," he says, "and ball clubs would then need only a brief period of practice, as compared with present requirements, before the season opened. They would not have to condition their players physically.

"Ruel, Hofman, Elliott, Grimm, Todt, High, Robertson, Cissell, Blades, Mueller and Roettger are only a few of the present or past major leaguers who got their first athletic education playing soccer in the St. Louis Municipal League. Jimmy Wilson played the game elsewhere, but I could name many others. There is no better conditioner for baseball than soccer."

Pete Scott.

THE dropping of Outfielder Pete Scott by the Pittsburgh club was not unexpected. Though he hit the ball hard and proved a very useful citizen for a time last year in that respect, particularly against left-hand pitching, his fielding, in spite of his rare speed, never measured up to major league standards, and in one or two details he was short of big show requirements. When the Pirate officials asked waivers on Scott to complete his sale to the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League, another National League club for a time declined to pass either Pete or a second Buccaneer who also was placed on the waiver block, but it developed that the other player was the one really desired and the obstructing club eventually kicked in with a waiver on Scott when the request on the second man was withdrawn by the Buc management.

IT WILL not be surprising if the Pittsburgh club disposes of at least one and possibly two more outfielders before the time arrives for the squad to start on the spring training trip. Though he was recalled last fall after one jaunt to the minors, there appears to be hardly any chance that Clyde Barnhart will be kept for 1929, and it is possible that another gardener also will be shipped away.

Under Bush's plans for outfield reconstruction, Scott did not promise to be anything more than dead wood, and it is doubtful if Barnhart will offer any greater appeal as an asset for 1929. The fate of the other fly chaser referred to may depend upon how the remainder of the material for the picket line shapes up, but right now there seems to be little possibility of his being kept.

THE Pirate skipper has given no intimation as to how he expects his outfield to be made up for the opening of the next championship season. In fact, he says his own mind is still open on the subject, and that he will make no definite decision until he has observed how things work out in training camp.

However, it is pretty well understood that Donie intends to give George Grantham a trial in the outfield, his showing there to determine whether he is to be used as a regular or merely as an alternate and for utility roles.

Duke McCurry.

ADAM COMOROSKY, it is believed, will be given another chance to try to win a berth in the outfield. If he doesn't come through this time it is unlikely that any further experimenting will be done with him, but the Pirate management has not given up hope that he will make the grade. Comorosky's case is a peculiar one. In the minor leagues he never fails to shine. Again in the American Association last year he was called the best ball player in that circuit, and he looked every way as if he could not fail to make his mark in the majors. Yet when he gets up there, he gives the impression that there is something wrong with him. Bush hopes to find out next spring what that something is and to discover a way to correct it.

ODIE CLEGHORN may have found the solution to the Duke McCurry puzzle by transfering that player from the front line to the defense department on the Pittsburgh hockey club. McCurry was tried at a defense berth in this week's practice sessions at Duquesne Garden, and may be used in that position in tonight's game in Ottawa or later in the season.

One thing certain is that if McCurry does not make good as a defense man he will not be of much use anywhere on the local team, as he has been an utter failure as a forward. Such shifts as the one decided upon by Manager Cleghorn have sometimes proved the making of players after they failed in other positions, and perhaps the McCurry case will add another instance of success to the list.

IN SIGNING to manage the St. Paul club in the American Association next year, Bubbles Hargrave, former catcher of the Cincinnati Reds, goes back to the team from which he came to the majors. It was from St. Paul that the backstop went to the Reds following the season of 1920.

Incidentally, that was another deal in which the Pittsburgh club was euchred out of a valuable player, as in the cases of George Sisler, Russell Blackburne, Donald Hurst and others. A verbal agreement had been reached whereby Hargrave was to be sold to the Pirates,

PANTHERS GIVEN SECOND DEFEAT IN WEST

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Northwestern University defeated the University of Pittsburgh, claimant of the 1928 national basketball title, 30 to 24, before a crowd of 5,000 at Patten gymnasium last night.

Northwestern took an early lead and held on to the slim margin despite the frequent rallies of the Easterners during the last half. The Wildcats held a lead of 12 to 9 at the half—a period full of wild passing and rough guarding.

Both teams opened up in the second half. Hyatt, Pitt forward, connected with the basket from every part of the floor. His uncanny basket shooting, however, was matched with brilliant work by Waller and Capt. Gleichman.

It was Pittsburgh's second defeat in as many nights on their Western invasion. The Panthers play Wisconsin tonight at Madison. The lineup:

Northwestern—30.		Pitt—24.
Gleichmann	F.	Zehfuss
Siel	F.	Wunderlich
Walters	C.	L. Cohen
Marshall	G.	Hyatt
Mundy	G.	Baker

Substitutions—M. Cohen for Wunderlich, Arture for Zehfuss, Arthurs for Cohen, Ferraro for Baker, Sandburg for Ferraro. Field goals—Gleichmann 4, Siel, Walter 5, Marshall, Mundy 3, Zehfuss, Hyatt 5, Baker, M. Cohen. Fouls—Gleichmann, Marshall, Zehfuss 3, Hyatt 5. Referee—Keras, Umpire Young.

OFF FOR WEST

When Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's all-America quarterback, left for Chicago last night, en route to California to play in the annual East-West game, a portable typewriter was part of his baggage. He is the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's correspondent on the trip as well as a member of the Eastern squad.

HARPSTER JOINS SUN-TELE STAFF

WRITING HIS STORY

Here is Harpster writing his first story for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, which appears in today's issue. Harpster will send dispatches throughout the trip West and will cover the East-West game at San Francisco, December 29, and the Tournament of Roses game at Los Angeles, January 1. The captain and all-America quarterback of the Tartans is an adept writer, and certainly an authority on football, having been generally rated the smartest field general of the year in the collegiate ranks. Watch for his daily stories appearing only in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

EASTERN TEAM IS HARD HIT

(Following is the first of a series of exclusive articles by Howard Harpster, all-America quarterback of Carnegie Tech, who will cover the East vs. West game and the Tournament of Roses game in California for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. He left last night for Chicago to join the Eastern squad and will file daily stories.)

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback of Carnegie Tech. (Written Exclusively for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

AS I write these lines, a few hours before my departure for Chicago to join Coaches Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley and the other members of the all-East football eleven, which plays the all-West team in the annual game for the benefit of the orphans' fund under the auspices of the Shriners, at San Francisco, December 29, I note that the stock of our aggregation is beginning to act as some of those big stocks in Wall Street have acted the last few days. By that I mean we have suffered no small loss in the refusal of the New York University athletic officials to permit Ken Strong and Les Barabee to come along with us.

STRONG GREAT PLAYER

Personally, I believe there is no man on the entire East squad of the caliber of Strong, who without doubt is the hardest running back of the year. The absence of Barabee, too, will be keenly felt, both because of his great ability as a defensive end and his uncanny skill in receiving passes. One of the foremost passing combinations of the season just closed was that of Strong and Barabee. However, I have not yet given up hope of seeing this pair show up at headquarters in Chicago, as I received a telegram from Ken a few days ago, in which he arranged to return with me over the southern route, a trip which we have been planning since the invitations to join the squad were issued. I shall be keenly disappointed if Strong and Barabee find it impossible to join us.

Even with the absence of the flashy Strong and the agile Barabee, we will have a formidable team

Letzelter, Sweet Sub for Strong and Barrabee

Tony Sweet and Cyril Letzelter, end and halfback, respectively on the Carnegie Tech varsity football team during the last season, were last minute additions to the all-East team, which will meet a team of picked Western players at San Francisco, December 29.

Sweet and Letzelter were selected to make the trip at the last minute when New York University refused Ken Strong and Les Barrabee permission to make the jaunt. The New York halfback star and wingman were the original selections of Andy Kerr, co-coach with Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, of the Eastern squad.

With the addition of Tony and Cy, Pittsburgh's quota of players on the team was raised to five. This pair accompanied Mike Getto and Alex Fox, of Pitt, and Howard Harpster, of Tech, as they left for the coast last night.

PIRATES PLAY IN OTTAWA TONIGHT

GAMES TONIGHT.
Pittsburgh at Ottawa.
Les Canadiens at Montreal.
Boston at Toronto.

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—Pittsburgh's well-rested ice Pirates will exchange bruises with a few of the world's healthiest influenza victims here tonight in a National Hockey League game. The robust flu sufferers are this city's Senators, and their game with the Bucs will mark the first meeting of the two teams this season.

On Thursday, when the Senators were in Detroit, it was reported that five regulars and the manager had been stricken with an attack of influenza. That night the locals were so ill that they were able to hold the Detroit Cougars, one of the strongest clubs in the league, to a 1-1 deadlock. Odie Cleghorn and his Pirates feel that should the locals suffer a relapse they will be invincible.

Although the Pittsburghers have been able to ring up very few triumphs this season, they are regarded by the locals as dangerous foemen. In four battles with the Pirates last season, the Senators won two, tied one and lost one. During the past week the invaders have been able to devote all of their time to practice, and local fans anticipate a close, hard-fought fray.

Duke McCurry, formerly a wing, is to be used at defense by the Bucs tonight. The probable lineup:

Ottawa.		Pittsburgh.
Connell	G.	Miller
Boucher	D.	McCaffery
Clancy	D.	Hollway
Touhey	C.	Mike
Kilrea	W.	Darragh
Finnegan	W.	Cotton

Ottawa spares—Halliday, Elliott, Smith. Neighbor, Shields. Pittsburgh spares—Duffy, White, MacKay, McCurry, Smith, McKinnon.

PYLE TO UTILIZE LESSONS OF FIRST RACE

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

C. C. PYLE is back at his old racket. He is going to try another cross-country marathon next year, which would seem to bear out the contention of some of the disgruntled contestants in this year's grind that plenty of money was made out of the venture—for the promoter.

The one and only Pyle learned some wrinkles about the running business in that first affair, which was termed by some the Flop of the Century, because of the cool reception the runners got when they reached New York and wound up before a handful of the curious in Madison Square Garden.

According to a pamphlet telling about the second edition of the race, which will start from New York on Sunday, March 31, and likely will consume almost three months, all of the runners will be required to shift for themselves in the race in the matter of furnishing their own grub, trainers, lodging, equipment, etc. It will be remembered that this year there were many squawks from runners who were forced to drop out or were disqualified about the skimpiness of the meals, poor sleeping accommodations and lack of care. Every man will be on his own in the forthcoming "classic" and will be required to have sufficient backing from the folks back home to see him through any emergency.

There will be $60,000 in prizes, ranging from $25,000 for first prize and $10,000 for second down to $700 for fifteenth place. This year there were only 10 prizes, totaling $48,500. The last six prizes were of only $1,000 each. Andrew Payne, of Claremore, Okla., was the winner.

THE Pittsburgh district had three contestants, none of whom finished. They were Bill Busch, of Millvale, who the year before had made a solo trip across the country on foot; Rod Ellsworth, of Monongahela, and Earl Dilks, of New Castle. The chances are that at least one or two of these runners will be back in the hoofing derby again.

Out of a field of 246 entries, 199 started and 55 finished. Pyle submits a report from a medical examiner of Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia, which states that the men who finished all were in good condition and reports that information received from them since

HARPSTER MAY GET JOB AT MUHLENBERG

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—Harold Harpster, Carnegie Tech's brilliant all-America quarterback, may shortly be tendered an offer to take over the head football coaching reins at Muhlenberg College, according to a reliable report from the Allentown campus last night. Despite the fact that the Muhlenberg Athletic Board issued a statement yesterday, following its meeting on Thursday night, in which the members endorsed the regime of Harry (Haps) Benfer as head tutor of the gridiron squad, there were persistent rumors last night that a change in the coaching staff was imminent and that Harpster in all probability would be offered the Cardinal and Gray berth.

It is said Benfer, upon being given the indorsement of the athletic board, was now in a position to tender his resignation without leaving a bad taste. Last week the former Gettysburg star, whose resignation was demanded by virtually the entire student body of the Allentown institution, declared he would not resign under fire.

A delegation of Muhlenberg alumni from the western end of Pennsylvania is said to have called upon several members of the athletic board on Thursday as diplomats on behalf of Harpster, considered one of the greatest quarterbacks of modern-day football. While the statement of the athletic board

ALL-STAR GAME IN SOUTH OFF

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Southern Conference all-star football game, to have been played between a team of the northern section of the conference and one from the southern, probably will be staged New Year's Day, 1930, instead of next year.

At the opening session of its annual meeting yesterday, the conference heard Roberty Gregg, of Atlanta, one of the sponsors of the game for charity, ask that it be deferred a year because of Georgia Tech's trip to the Pacific coast to meet California.

The game would be played at Atlanta. While the executive committee of the conference last September gave the plan approval in principle, it yet must be acted upon by the body as a whole. Such a decision is to be made at the meeting today.

Several amendments were offered to the constitution. One would substitute the figures "23" for he number "22" to which the conference limits its members. Favorable action on this amendment would pave the way to Duke University's entrance into the conference. This subject is expected to reach a final decision today.

JOE DUNDEE 'UNDESIRABLE'

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission closed its books for 1928 yesterday by electing a new secretary; granting permits for next year to all boxing clubs now in good standing, and unofficially placing Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, in the "undesirable" class in California.

Dundee's name came up in a discussion after the meeting in connection with a proposed championship bout here with Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles. Charles F. Traung, chairman, stated that Dundee was not licensed in California and expressed the belief that if an application were made, the commission would turn it down.

The welterweight titleholder was one of the principals in the fiasco in Los Angeles where he refused to go on with a bout with Ace Hudkins because the promoter was unable to produce all of his guarantee money.

BRITONS BOW TO U. S.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The American squash racquets team consisting of Rawlins, Powers, Gilmore and Reese, defeated the Royal Air Force Club in the R. A. F. Courts last night, 4 matches to 0.

BALLYHOO?

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Tex Rickard, showman par excellence, is not overlooking any bets that may help to swell the gate of the proposed Sharkey-Stribling bout in Miami Beach, Fla. The promoter plans to ask Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion and still a possible contender, to referee the bout.

TO FETE FESLER

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 15.—Wesley Fesler, of this city, star end for Ohio State University, named on the mythical all-America team, is to be feted by local admirers next week when he returns for the holiday vacation. Fesler is the third member of his family to attend State.

MINORS' CONFAB OFF

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(AP.)—The American and National League club owners have played havoc with the minor leagues' hopes for formulating a reconciliation program at West Baden, Ind., January 10.

Instead of lining up with the minors' proposition of a peace meeting in January, the majors, in their joint meeting here, turned thumbs down on the proposal. As the result there will be no meeting and the present much-debated major-minor agreement will have to do for another year.

The minors' failure to outline a definite plan of reform at Toronto was given by the majors as the reason for deciding against sending a committee to the conference.

They did give minor league proponents of the plan an opportunity to explain why there should be a conference, but when the vote was taken not a supporter of th minors could be found among the club owners.

Cal Ewing, owner of he Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League and one of the supporters of a new major-minor agreement, said he saw no use of convening if only the minors were to be represented.

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American Association, said there would be no meeting, as nothing would come of it. The American Association has led the fight against the present draft system.

AMATEUR BOUTS PROVE EXCITING

Real action marked the amateur fight show of the Homewood-Brushton baseball club last night at the Twenty-eighth Signal Corps Armory, East Liberty. Two bouts went four rounds before a winner was named.

Charley Lesko, of the Duke O'Hara Club, scored an upset in defeating Thad Yarocz, of Monaca, lightweight champion, in three rounds. The heavyweight battle between Francis (Sonny Boy) Evans, of Blythesdale, and Lincoln Page, of the Superior A. C. was exciting. Evans is the Greater Pittsburgh heavyweight titleholder, but last night he met his match in Page, who won every round of a great three-round fight. The summary:

112-round class—James Loiges, Duke O'Hara Club, won from George Durao, Hazelwood A. C., four rounds.

118-pound class—George Flaherty, Duke O'Hara Club, won from Alex Conrad, Duquesne, four rounds.

126-pound class—Todd Murphy, Duke O'Hara Club, won from Fred Bolden, Superior A. C., four rounds; Pat Powers, Lawrenceville Club, won from Lou Trenga, Larimer avenue, in three rounds.

135-pound class—Milo Poporic, Duke O'Hara Club, won from William Zarick, Soho, three rounds; Sharkey Lesko, Duke O'Hara Club, won from Thad Yarocz, Monaca, three rounds.

160-pound class—A. Bazzone, Duke O'Hara Club, won from Al Bonner, Homestead Library A. C., three rounds.

Heavyweight class—Lincoln Page, Superior A. C., won from Francis (Sonny Boy) Evans, Blythesdale A. C., three rounds.

Havana Track To Open Today

HAVANA, Dec. 15. — (AP.) — Havana's horse racing history will attain new heights this season if indications of preparations now under way mean anything.

In order to attract more visitors extensive alterations are being made at the Jockey Club, and it is being enlarged considerably. Many shipments of mounts have already arrived, and arrangements are being made to handle 1,000 head of racers.

More than 300 horses from Kentucky stables and races are already here. There already are about 900 head of horses now in the paddocks, and everyone is waiting for the magic signal—"they're off"—today, when the winter season opens.

Tech Issues Call For Hockey Players

Clarence (Buddy) Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, has issued a call for hockey candidates. He has asked all Tech undergrads interested in the game to report at Duquesne Garden, Sunday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, with skates and stick in hand, for practice. The Tartans have joined the recently-organized Western Pennsylvania Amateur Hockey League, which opens its season Christmas Eve.

but this was later repudiated by Mike Kelly, then boss of the St. Paul team, who made a new dicker with the late Pat Moran, then manager of Cincinnati. Hargrave gave the Reds good service behind the bat for eight years and hit over .300 in the majority of them. He led the National League batsmen in 1926 with an average of .353.

INDICATIONS that the deadlock among Jap Douds, Donald Malcolm and Delbert Secrist for the W. & J. football captaincy will lead to the appointment of a captain or a series of captains for next season's games by Head Coach Andy Kerr, means that Wash-Jeff, through force of circumstances will follow Carnegie Tech's lead in having gridiron leaders appointed instead of elected. A number of other colleges have adopted the plan, and it is clearly growing in favor. Harvard is one of the few big schools desiring to give the game back to the players rather than take it from them. That is the idea of Graduate Manager William Bingham and Head Coach Arnold Horween. When Harvard plays a football game it is Harvard that is playing it, not Horween. According to Eddie Dooley, Horween permits the players to think for themselves and to solve their own problems as they arise during a contest.

PROMOTER TEX RICKARD is not springing anything new or novel on Florida in arranging to hold a heavyweight fistic show, with Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling as the topliners, in late February or early March, in a new arena to be constructed in Miami with a seating capacity of 50,000. For Florida has already been the scene not merely of an ordinary heavyweight match, but of one involving the world championship.

That took place almost 35 years ago, or on January 25, 1894, when Jim Corbett defended the heavyweight championship successfully against Charley Mitchell, English challenger, stopping him in three rounds. There was much talk before the fight, an afternoon affair, that it might be stopped by the state troops on the order of the arena the soldiers were unarmed and did not interfere with the governor, but though the day of the fight found the militia near the scheduled proceedings.

LEAD AT STAKE IN LAFAYETTE, LIGHT CLASH

By JULIUS LEVIN.

UNDISPUTED possession of first place will be at stake tonight when the Duquesne Lafayettes invade the South Side Market House to assist the Duquesne Light passers in the opening of their Allegheny County League home schedule. The contest brings together the only undefeated teams in the County loop and a nip-and-tuck battle is expected, as both clubs displayed brilliant form in their inaugurals. The Duquesne Lafayettes defeated the Goldensons by a single point, while the Light passers were forced to play two extra priods of five minutes each to score a two-point decision over the Rauhs.

EXPECT BIG CROWD

The battle at the Market House should attract a capacity crowd to the Twelfth street auditorium as the contest brings together champions of two leagues. The Duquesne Lafayettes are the titleholders in the Allegheny County League, having won the laurels for two successive seasons, while the Duquesne Light team is the standard-bearer of the Commercial-Industrial.

While the Duquesne Lafayettes will take the floor a favorite to defeat the home passers, the Light quintet's familiarity with the Market House floor, where it plays its County and Commercial-Industrial League battles, should serve it in good stead.

The Lafayette-Duquesne Light contest climaxes a week in the County League that excels anything witnessed in that circuit since its organization. Of the five games that have been played two have been decided in extra periods, two have been decided by one point and the other by two points. If the two teams run true to form tonight and if the early games can be taken as a criterion of the league's strength, fans attending the contest tonight are going to witness a battle-royal.

TWO PRELIMS

Two fast preliminaries have been arranged by Kempton F. McNutt, manager of the Duquesne Light team, to precede the main attraction tonight. H. P. Celtics, of Homewood, meet the Carson club in the first at 7 o'clock, while the Red McMahon club opposes a strong junior team in the second, starting at 8 o'clock. The main game will get under way at 9 o'clock with the popular Bill Griffith handling the referee's whistle.

All six members of the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League will swing into action tonight. The Y. M. H. A. meets Hill Top at the Y. M. H. A., East Liberty Y entertains Community at East Liberty, and Kingsley House opposes Heinz House. The reserve teams of all institutions will clash in the preliminary games. The Institutional League teams are gradually striking their natural strides and are furnishing their supporters with hard-fought and interesting battles. This loop promises to rank as the premier amateur circuit before the season reaches the halfway point.

CANEVIN AT C. M. C.

The fur is expected to fly tonight when the Catholic Men's Club engages the Canevin Club at the Mt. Washington St. Mary's Lyceum Hall. Both teams are in the thick of the running for the Lyceum League championship. The game tonight should draw a packed house of divided supporters.

Two high-class attractions are offered the followers of the West Penn League tonight, the league-leading Knickerbockers opposing the Hirshberg Club at McKeesports Y., while Duquesne Saltzers invade Edgewood to meet the club representing that borough on the floor.

The H. H. Robertson team will be the opponent of First U. P. Community House varsity in the latter's opening game on the Community House floor tonight. The North Siders have played several practice games and tonight's affair promises to find them in good shape.

Ralston Hemsley, Pirate catcher, who has been working out with the Goldenson's, has been refused permission to play basketball this winter. The owner of the Pirates believes the winter indoor sports is too strenuous for baseball athletes.

Noted Cue Players To Meet in Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Eight outstanding players will compete in the combination three-cushion and pocket billiard tournament to be held in Orchestra Hall next week.

In Monday's opening pocket matches, Erwin Rudolph, Chicago, will play Frank Taberski, Schnectedy, N. Y. A three-cushion match between Willie Hoppe, New York, and Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, will follow.

Ralph Greenleaf, New York, national champion, will meet Pasquale Natlie, of Baltimore in the second match.

John Layton, Sedalia, Mo., national three-cushion champion, will meet Gus Copulos, Detroit.

The tournament will close Wednesday.

Bellefonte Picks Temple for Award

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Dec. 15.—A beautiful pen, set with pearls, for the player on the Bellefonte Academy eleven for the season of 1928 selected as the most useful player during the season, was awarded yesterday by the athletic committee to Capt. Harry Temple, of Altoona. His work during the past season has been nothing short of marvelous.

backs up Benfer and gives him full indorsement, the belief is expressed throughout Allentown that it is only a polite way of letting him out. It has come to the attention of the athletic committee recently from sources which to the committee seemed to be entirely reliable that a large portion of the blame for the disastrous season at Muhlenberg must be laid at the seat of certain individuals or a group of individuals on the football squad who have not been loyal to Benfer and who have not played to win.

Their prejudices against Coach Benfer are founded not in any well grounded reasons, but in a certain disaffection which began more than four years ago and which unfortunately confronted Benfer when he came to Muhlenberg and which has remained to the disappointment of the athletic committee with certain of those who constitute the Cardinal and Gray squad.

Howard Harpster is taking a five-year course at Carnegie Tech and will be back in school next fall, although he will be ineligible for athletics. Unless he could arrange for a leave of absence from his studies, it is unlikely that he could accept the Muhlenberk offer.

No Grid Captain For 1929 at Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Indiana University football team next season will return to the plan of playing without a permanent captain, it was decided by members of this year's team. Coach Pat Page introduced the plan at Indiana in 1927 and he believes it is successful.

Page will appoint a defensive and an offensive captain from the line and backfield, respectively, before each game, but there will be no captains elected to serve throughout the season as was done this season when both defensive and offensive captains were named.

Von Porat Sues Promoter for $50,000

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian heavyweight, has been damaged to the extent of $50,000 by Mique Malloy, Chicago boxing promoter, according to Von Porat's claim in a suit on file here today.

The action is based on what the fighter claims was "slanderous advertising" put out by Malloy in connection with the impending Loughran-Peterson heavyweight bout, scheduled for Chicago next Monday night.

The suit charges Von Porat's earning capacity as a boxer has been greatly reduced by the posters used by Malloy.

The Norwegian contends posters carrying the information that Big Boy Peterson defeated him twice is slanderous and unusually damaging to his reputation as a "big timer." Von Porat's petition characterizes Peterson as a "seventh-rate fighter" who never has been seriously regarded as a contender for the heavyweight crown.

Malloy dismissed the impending suit thusly:

"I've got a telegram from the Minnesota Athletic Commission saying that Peterson won two decisions over Von Porat."

Genaro Retains "Title" on Foul

DETROIT, Dec. 15. — (AP.) — Frankie Genaro still is the National Boxing Commission flyweight champion, as the result of a foul by Steve Rocco, Canadian champion, in the second round of their scheduled 10-round championship match here last night.

Rocco's chance at Genaro's crown was wrecked when he dropped Genaro with a left hook that landed low. Genaro was thumping at Rocco's body when he suddenly cried out and dropped to the canvas. He was lifted to his corner, where a physician examined him and said he had been struck low. Referee Elmer McClelland declared Genaro a winner on an unintentional foul.

Genaro was on the aggressive at the start of the bout and caused considerable excitement when he dove head first through the ropes after missing a hard right swing in the first round. Neither fighter had gained an advantage when the incident brought the bout to an abrupt close.

Nurmi Arrives Today; to Turn Pro

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Paavo Nurmi, crack distance runner, is due to arrive here from his native Finland today on the liner Rochambeau. According to reports in some quarters, he will turn professional and race against Joie Ray and El Ouafi.

AL SINGER GETS DRAW WITH CANZONERI

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Al Singer, sensational young New York featherweight, was awarded a draw with Tony Canzoneri, former 126-pound champion, in a slashing 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

The former champion fought an aggressive, tearing battle all the way, outsmarting the youngster in most of the close exchanges and beating him to the punch consistently at long range. Singer did his best work with a long left hand that flicked into Tony's face. In the late rounds Singer brought into action a short right to the body that slowed Canzoneri perceptibly.

The former bootblack of New Orleans took the decision gracefully, although a consensus of the ringside critics was overwhelming in his favor. The crowd, however, took exception to the award and booed lustily.

A record crowd of 20,804 paid $63,421 to see the battle. Canzoneri, a veteran for all his youth, apparently gave the youngster, one of the local favorites, a neat trouncing, but Singer fought him gamely and cleverly all the way. Each scaled 128 pounds.

The Associated Press chart gave Canzoneri eight rounds, with only two for Singer. Singer won the second and eighth rounds, but Canzoneri's margin in several others was slight.

Tommy Grogan, heavy-hitting lightweight from Omaha, Neb., smashed out a thrilling 10-round decision over Lew Kersh, local favorite, in the semi-final. Grogan won all except the eighth round and nearly finished his man in the second and ninth sessions. The weights were: Grogan, 136½; Kersh, 135.

Bruce Flowers, Negro lightweight, of New Rochelle, N. Y., won a 10-round decision over Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo veteran, in the first bout. Flowers weighed 138½ pounds; Goodrich, 140½.

PROFIO SIGNED FOR WINDUP

Dominic Profilo, welterweight knockout star of Cecil, Pa., who only recently graduated from the amateur ranks, will make his main bout debut next Thursday night at McKeesport, when he will box California Joe Gans, Negro mixer of McKeesport, in the feature end of a double windup card of two 10-round bouts, according to announcement by Promoter Jim McGirr today. Johnny Carey, of Erie, and Phil Scello, of McKeesport, will box the other main event and there will be two six-round preliminaries.

Scello also will appear on the Christmas matinee card at Motor Square Garden, in the headline number, of which Cuddy DeMarco will oppose Rudy Ceder. Scello's opponent in the eight-round semi-final on this program will be Tug Phillips. Joe Colombo and Tiger Joe Randall have been matched for one of the six-round bouts, and an effort is being made to sign Jackie Rodgers and Johnny Dunn for the other battle.

Jack Zivic and Cuddy DeMarco have finished training for their three-round exhibition bout, which will top off the benefit show for the orphan's Christmas benefit show to be held in Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Ten amateur bouts complete the bill.

South American Champ Quits Ring

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Alex Rely, light heavyweight champion of South America, today vacated his title because of illness and the loss of an eye.

In a letter to the South American Boxing Federation Rely says he was returning the title. He was also the Peruvian and Chilean champion, and during his 18 years in the ring is said to have fought 72 times, losing only two battles by knockouts.

Peruvian and foreign boxers here have announced a benefit for Rely.

C. C. Pyle to Cash In on Experience is to the effect that their health was improved by the grind.

The distance of 3,422.3 miles was covered in 84 days, and could have been cleaned up a little sooner but for some jockeying to bring the runners into New York at an appointed day and hour.

An office wisecracker suggests that in running his next race from East to West, instead of from West to East, the canny Pyle is scheming to break the record of this year. "The days are longer going West," is the observation, "and the runners will gain time."

PYLE reports that he sold 480,000 official programs during the 1928 trek. He also received guarantees from civic organizations for passing through certain towns and derived sums of money from advertising. Yet it is said only the appearance of an "angel" at the finish enabled him to pay off the runners in full.

Coach Elmer Layden, who has been re-engaged by the Dukes for five years, has been anxious to see Buff Donnelli, his fullback who has been re-elected captain for next season, play soccer as a member of the crack Heidelberg Club, of which he is the star. Accordingly, it is said he made two trips in vain over the last week-end and still has to see the great Buffer in action. It seems Heidelberg was scheduled to play Dunlevy and the game was to be played either at Charleroi last Saturday or at Heidelberg on Sunday. So Layden hopped into his gas buggy and drove to Charleroi on Saturday and learned when he arrived that the game was not being played there. His next best bet was to go to Heidelberg the following day, which he did. But, instead of meeting there, Heidelberg and Dunlevy clashed at Dunlevy. The next time Layden goes to see Buff perform with the hooters he will be handcuffed to that star.

NOW that President Heydler, of the National League, has paved the way with his suggestion that pitchers be relieved of the onus of striking out for themselves, through the medium of having a tenth player in the lineup of each team whose duty it will be to whiff for the moundman, and has had the plan vetoed, it remains to be seen which pitcher will be the first to hold out in the spring for more money because the team can't do without him at bat.

Next thing we know, Bill Muldoon will be urging that each boxer be allowed to take a sparring partner into the ring with him to take the other fellow's punches while the party of the first part confines himself to handing out some of the same. There's nothing like taking the brutality out of sport—even if it is only insofar as the public is concerned. Many a good fight has been ruined because the star stopped one with his chin.

MIAMI is a glutton for punishment. After what happened to its Gene Tunney-Young Stribling bout a few years ago, it now plans a Jack Sharkey-Stribling battle for next March, with Tex Rickard in the role of guest promoter. A gate of $500,000 is expected. With Floridans still carrying around many unredeemed tickets for the previous bust, the chances are they will not pay heavy dough in advance again for anything short of a hurricane. The suckers will buy pasteboards only when they see the whites of the eyes of Sharkey and Stribling in the corners of the ring.

The defeat of the Pitt basketball team, 35 to 33, in its first game of the season, by Butler, at Indianapolis, Thursday night, following a perfect record of no defeats last season, may have spread gloom in some quarters, but it was a good thing for the players of the squad, who now are relieved of the strain of trying to concentrate on keeping a great record intact and can get down to the serious business of playing basketball from game to game. There are few, if any, heavier loads to carry in the realm of sport than the one of trying to maintain a standard or running up a winning streak. The end has to come some time and the fear that it always may be the next step ahead constitutes a great mental hazard.

(P. S. — Since the above was written, Pitt also lost to Northwestern, 30-24. Habits certainly have the faculty of forming quickly).

Stribling - Sharkey Go Date Set For March 1

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. — Young Stribling, who has been matched to co-star with Jack Sharkey in the big pugilistic pageant to be promoted by Tex Rickard at Miami Beach on March 1, will not be permitted to box Joe Sekyra in the Garden next month as planned. Tex is taking no chances with Will, who has the unhappy faculty of making untimely bad fights. Sharkey, however, will be permitted to fight K. O. Christner at the Garden on January 4. Rickard is willing to gamble the Bostonian will knock the former rubber worker from Akron bowlegged. Tex doesn't think much of Kayo, being of the opinion Christner is one of those overnight wonders who got a lucky break.

Tex intends to stage the Sharkey-Stribling fight in an outdoor arena pitched on the new dog track now in course of construction. It will hold 50,000 people. The resorters will have to pay $25 per copy for ringside seats.

Stribling already has signed for the fight but Sharkey hasn't. Tex expects to have no trouble swinging him into line, however, for he says himself, "I can guarantee him more for this bout than he could ever hope to get on a percentage basis here in New York.

EAST-WEST

on the field, I am sure, with men of the caliber of Getto, the all-America tackle of Pitt; Alex Fox, Pitt's great captain, and Carl Aschman, that 150-pound fighting center of the Wash-Jeff eleven, among those who undoubtedly will be in the starting lineup.

PLANS FOR TRIP

The present plans are for the members of the East squad to meet at the Palmer House, Chicago, and from there they will be taken to Evanston, Ill., to hold the initial workout at Northwestern University Saturday afternoon. This practice undoubtedly will consist of limbering-up exercises and acquainting the men with new formations. After dinner, the train will leave from Evanston and go direct to San Francisco. As I understand it, there will be no stops for practice en route, as the coaches deem it advisable for the men to reach the scene of action as soon as possible in order to thoroughly acclimatize themselves before the battle.

ALL-STARS GET SIGNALS

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Members of the all-star Eastern team which will clash with the West in the annual charity football game at San Francisco, assembled at Northwestern Universtiy today.

After receiving their outfits and a few signals from the coaches, Andy Kerr, of Washington and Jefferson and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, the 20 players will leave tonight for San Francisco. The game is to be played December 29.

Most of the time en route West will be spent by the players in studying formations and each day they will hop off the train to practice.

BEARS HAVE EDGE

PASEDENA, Ca., Dec. 15—(AP.)—Practice for the New Year's day game between Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado and the Bears of California in the Rose Bowl begins next week with indications that the Western team will have a decided advantage in reserve strength over the Dixie squad.

It was revealed today that Nibs Price, California coach, will bring 50 men to Pasadena next Thursday to start intensive training.

California's squad will outnumber by 16 players the team Coach Bill Alexander is said to be planning to bring here December 24.

Duke U. Admitted To Southern League

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Duke University, in North Carolina, has been admitted to membership in the Southern Conference, which unanimously set aside the constitutional provision limiting its membership to 22 colleges.

The conference also voted last night to except Joe Guyon, former Georgia Tech and Carlisle Indian star, from the rule against employment of coaches and assistants who have had experience in professional football. He will be assistant to Josh Cody, as coach at Clemson.

Two More Georgia Tech Gridders Take Flu

ATLANTA, Dec. 15. — (AP.) — Frank Waddey and Joe Westbrooke yesterday were added to the list of Georgia Tech football players forced to their beds with influenza. Others of the Tech squad suffering from the malady are Father Lumpkin, Glenn Holland, Red Luna and Jim Brooks.

Authorities believe the men will recover in time to play in the Pasadena New Year's game.

Stribling Signs To Meet Delaney

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Young Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, has been signed to meet Jack Delaney, Canadian heavyweight, in a 10-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, January 11, it was announced today by Promoter Tex Rickard.

Delaney, who has been training at Saranac Lake, N. Y., for his bout with Jack Sharkey, scheduled for January 4, will leave for New York next week to begin training for his bout with Stribling.

Jack Dempsey Is Not Interested

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, is not interested in the proposed Sharkey-Stribling bout to be staged in Miami Beach, Fla., by Promoter Tex Rickard, it was learned today.

Dempsey, who has been approached by Rickard to referee the bout, has declined the offer, it was said.

LOCAL BOXERS BEAT OHIOANS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—A promising crop of amateur fistic talent from Pittsburgh waltzed on with a sizeable chunk of glory here last night in an intercity mitt tournament, winning five of the seven bouts.

Andy Andrucci, a clever lightweight, won the first victory for Pittsburgh by handing Joe Schlund, of Cleveland, a neat trimming in three stanzas. Schlund absorbed considerable punishment, but was not knocked off his feet.

In a three-session slugfest, George Chambers, of Pittsburgh, won by a slight margin over Billy Skully, Cleveland middleweight star.

Only one bout failed to go the distance, George Bretch, Pittsburgh welterweight, scoring a technical knockout victory over Billy Miller, Cleveland, in the second round. The summary:

112-pound—Pete Alesandro, Pittsburgh, defeated Johnny Bender, Cleveland, in three rounds; Nat Litlin, Pittsburgh, defeated Joe Guind, Cleveland, in four rounds.

118-pound—Harold Worthington, Cleveland, defeated Sam Paris, Pittsburgh, in three rounds.

126-pound—Ernie Schwartz, Cleveland, defeated Joe Irlani, Pittsburgh, in three rounds.

135-pound—Andrew Andrucci, Pittsburgh, defeated Joe Schlund, Cleveland, in three rounds.

147-pound—George Bretch, Pittsburgh, won on a technical knockout from Billy Miller, Cleveland, in second round.

160-pound—George Chambers, Pittsburgh, defeated Billy Skully, Cleveland, in three rounds.

State Commission Suspends Graham

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Boxing Commission yesterday indefinitely suspended Mickey Garcia, Rushy Grasham, boxer, of Utica, N. Y. for failing to honor a contract with the Armory A. C., Wilkes-Barre, December 6. Bob Bradley, boxer, Allentown, was suspended for 30 days for fouling his opponent in a bout at the Allentown A. C.

Flu Not to Halt W. & J. Cage Drills

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 14.—The closing of Washington and Jefferson College until January 8, on account of an epidemic of influenza, will not halt the basketball practice at the institution according to Assistant Coach Bill Amos, in charge of the squad in the absence of Head Coach Andy Kerr.

The leading candidates for the team will remain at the training house and will practice twice daily until next Friday when they will go home over Christmas, returning here December 26.

They will have three days of practice then before starting the eastern trip which provides games with the Tessers, C. C. at Brooklyn; City College of New York City, and Temple University at Philadelphia, starting with December 29.

Jim Maloney Wins Over Andy Mitchell

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, outslugged Andy Mitchell, of Long Beach, Cal., here last night to such an extent that Mitchell's seconds tossed up a towel in the sixth of the 10-round bout. Both fighters slugged furiously all the way, but Maloney had the better of the going in all rounds except one.

Leo Mitchell, Andy's brother, outpointed Homer Robertson, of Boston, in a slow 10-round bout.

Bunker Hill, of Savannah, Ga., knocked out Paul Hoffman, of Holland, in the fifth round of a six-round bout. Hill outweighed Hoffman by 20 pounds and was a head taller.

The game nearly ended in a dispute when Eichenmiller took exception to a decision of the referee. Play was resumed after considerable argument, and Pitfield won rather handily. Eichenmiller was playing for 45 points.

No Changes Likely in General Motors

By B. C. FORBES

NO CHANGE whatsoever is contemplated in the presidency of General Motors, I understand.

Pierre duPont, admired and loved by all his colleagues, has resumed his association with the corporation as chairman. The present expectation is that he will continue.

A. P. Sloan, the president, is admittedly the hardest working man in the whole organization, which is saying a lot, seeing that General Motors executives are notoriously hard workers. It is also agreed that he has made an extraordinary record since he took charge.

So far as I can learn, there isn't one high-up executive but earnestly wants Mr. Sloan to continue carrying the crushingly heavy burden.

FRED J. FISHER'S name has been most frequently mentioned as the logical man to be stepped up had Mr. duPont withdrawn. My understanding is that Mr. Fisher does not want the position and that had a chance in the lineup become necessary he would have rebelled against shouldering increased duties and responsibilities. These duties and responsibilities have multiplied tremendously in the last few years. Had a realignment of the highest executive positions been made before then, he, perhaps, would have been more willing to carry heavier General Motors harness.

Whether Mr. Raskob is to return or not, nobody pretends to know. Perhaps he doesn't know, himself. He is a man of great determination, full of courage, stick-to-it-iveness, confidence. It must be, therefore, that he will elect to stay on his political job until he feels that he has thoroughly licked it.

There are so many big brains active in the running of the largest motor corporation in the world that the retirement of any one man would not seriously affect its schedule of operation. The whole is bigger than any one part. General Motors is the polar opposite of a one-man organization. No other gigantic business enterprise in America is run along more co-operative democratic lines.

EVERYBODY in Detroit talks most optimistically of the corporation's future. Here is one inspiring fact:

The total output of General Motors in 1921 was 214,799 cars and trucks. Its export sales alone during the last 12 months have totaled 262,783, and the grand total of domestic and foreign sales combined this year will reach 1,750,000.

In view of that seven years' growth, who can set fixed limits to what the future may bring forth? By and by America's exports of automobile will pass our present total of production. The mythical saturation point remains just as mythical as ever.

HENRY FORD has piled up orders mountain high, insuring him full time production probably throughout 1929. Beyond that nobody can see, especially in view of the sudden appearance of the six cylinder Chevrolet and the trend of other low priced cars towards six cylinders. Some automobile men hazard the guess that Ford's next move, when he makes it, will be to eight cylinders as he has never favored six cylinders. The new Chevrolet is the sensation of this season just as the new Ford was last fall.

A friend and competitor of the chief author of the new Chevrolet, President W. S. Knudsen, congratulated him on its fine appearance.

"We ought to hit a good looking one once in a while, seeing we get out a new one every year," was Mr. Knudsen' prompt reply.

Incidentally, this Chevrolet mechanical genius is among the most modest of men—also one of the most valuable in the whole motor industry. Keep your eye on the Graham Brothers, the forceful young upbuilder of Graham Paige. Motor authorities declare they are real comers. Dubois Young, the energetic president of Hupmobile, who has taken over Chandler, Cleveland, tells me the latter will be maintained as a separate organization. Two influential Clevelanders, John Sherwin and Charles L. Bradley, have been elected to the Chandler board, and other important Cleveland citizens are cordially behind this deal, which means so much for that city.

Hupmobile is ending the best year in its long history. Mr. Young has been identified with it indirectly or directly since its organization in 1908. Like Walter P. Chrysler he started life as a machinist. Thus he understands the building of cars from A to Z. He looks forward to 1929 with confidence both as to his own company and the motor industry as a whole—Detroit takes an optimistic view of the coming year.

STOCKS MOVE IRREGULARLY HIGHER

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Stock prices moved irregularly higher at the opening of today's market. Bullish operations were immediately resumed in some of the high priced specialties. International Nickel opening with a block of 1,000 shares at 2½ up 3, and a new high record, and Radio opened 2 points higher. Westinghouse Electric, Columbia Gas and Union Carbide showed initial gains of a point or so, one block of 12,000 shares of Waldorf System changed hands at 28, up ½, and a new high. U. S. Steel common, Chrysler and Montgomery Ward yielded fractionally on opening sales.

A drop in Radio from 352 to 335, coupled with a renewal of selling pressure against the motor shares, checked the upward price tendency before the end of the first hour. Victor Talking Machine converted an early gain of 2 points into a loss of 4. Packard Motors dropped 4 points and Chrysler, S. S. Kresge and Sears Roebuck sold a point or more lower.

Pittsburgh Coal advanced 6 points to a new high record at 72. Chicago Pneumatic Tool ran up 6 points and American Radiator, Curtiss, National Bellas Hess, Peoples Gas and A. M. Byers moved up 2 to 3½ points before the advance was checked by selling in the general list.

In view of the possibility of a sharp advance in call money rates next week, several of the large commission houses urged extreme caution in the making of new commitments. Fears of a "secondary reaction" also were stressed by some brokerage houses.

Foreign exchange opened steady, with sterling cables unchanged at $4.85 5-32.

MERGER LIKELY FOR STANDARD AND RADIATOR

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE proposed merger of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company with the American Radiator Company has attractive possibilities from a sales and manufacturing viewpoint. The two companies make entirely different types of products but they are both appealing to the same class of buyers.

Standard is a producer of enameled iron ware, brass work and other plumbers' supplies. The other organization to enter the consolidation makes boilers, radiators and additional apparatus for heating plants. Both lines are primarily dependent on new building for their sales.

The consolidation would eliminate a large amount of duplicated effort. It would give the merged organization the advantage of being able to supply both the plumbing and heating systems on new construction.

BOTH companies have sales branches, warehouses and show rooms located in most of the important cities of the country. A merger would make enormous reductions in overhead possible by placing many of these branches under a single roof.

In the manufacturing end both companies do a large amount of foundry work in the production of their leading lines. Some consolidations of factory operations may be possible. Both companies are large buyers of pig iron and the merger might give advantages in purchasing.

Although officials of the American Radiator Company yesterday admitted that merger negotiations were under way, no definite plan for the consolidation had been completed. Standard Sanitary officials would not make any comment on the reports.

IT IS possible to draw rough conclusions on the probable basis of exchange of stock by a comparison of the two companies. Standard common closed yesterday at 47¾, Radiator common at 17¾. At these prices Radiator is selling for 3.7 times the price of Standard Sanitary.

Standard pays dividends of $1.60 a year, Radiator $5 a year. Radiator's return to stockholders is roughly three times that of the local company.

In 1927 Standard reported net profit of $7,820,012. After deducting preferred dividends this was equivalent to $2.24 a share on the 3,600,000 shares of common stock now outstanding. Radiator earned $12,057,-215. After deducting preferred dividends this was equal to $8.75 a share on the 1,880,000 common shares. The ratio in earnings per share is 3.9.

TAKING all of these factors into consideration, it appears logical that the exchange might be 3½ or 4 shares of Standard for one of Radiator.

Both companies have 7 per cent preferred stock which is non-callable and which has voting rights. The only important difference is that Standard's is non-cumulative, while Radiator's is cumulative. In companies with the established earning power of these such a divergence is not important. No sales of preferred stock have taken place in the last few days, but the bid and asked quotations show a market for Radiator preferred about 20 points higher.

This may be explained by the fact that although Radiator is a larger company, with greater earning power, it has only $3,-000,000 of preferred, while Standard has $8,000,000.

STANDARD has no funded debt while Radiator has only $10,-000,000 of debenture 4½s, due in 1947. These were issued last year to provide for plant improvements.

Radiator has physical properties valued at $66,454,216, against which reserves for depreciation of $16,181,-214 have been set up. Standard's property account is valued at $25,-226,500 after depreciation. It seems likely that the actual value of the properties of both companies is considerably higher than the amounts shown on the books.

Radiator had total assets of $116,-769,738 and surplus of $40,802,969 at the end of 1927, while Standard had total assets of $55,112,472 and surplus of $17,794,108.

Both were rushed to a local hospital where doctors said they had little hope for recovery.

Dennis was shot through the head and abdomen. The woman received wounds in the face, arm and side.

2 ACCUSED IN CLARK DEATH

CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE, N. J., Dec. 15.—(AP.)—Joseph Clark, alleged Philadelphia gangster, is being sought in connection with the slaying of Miss Mary Clark, of Pittsburgh, whose death here two years ago never has been solved.

Clark and Harry Rutherford, 18, convicted robber, also of Philadelphia, were accused today by Leo Allen, 36, confessed leader of the "Allen gang" in Ocean City, of having knowledge of the woman's slaying. The allegations were made after Allen and Rutherford had been sentenced for a series of robberies.

Allen declared that Rutherford boasted to him he had slain the woman, whose frozen body was found on the beach at Cape May two years ago. Miss Clark was a spinster of middle age, and was thought to have been wealthy.

Clark was with Rutherford in a stolen automobile the night before Mrs. Clark's body was found.

Miss Mary S. Clark, whose body was found frozen on the beach at Cape May, N. J., in January of last year, formerly had been a bookkeeper at Mercy Hospital. She left Pittsburgh about 15 years ago and had been residing in Washington, D. C. Burial was made here.

She was a native of Latrobe and was educated at St. Francis Xavier Academy. Her closest relative here is Joseph T. Fisher, Jr., of Braddock avenue, a second cousin.

Plenty of Fresh Air Is Influenza's Worst Enemy

There is no need for alarm in the conjunction of influenza and fog in Pittsburgh.

Fogs make for discomfort and a slowing up of traffic, but they are not deadly.

Federal health authorities at Washington say the present visitation of influenza is mild. Plenty of fresh air—and fresh air is free—will kill it.

Work and sleep in fresh air!

Citizens Won't Protest County Profit From Oil

Among monies allocated by the County Commissioners, engaged in making up the county budget for next year, is the sum of $4,500 for drilling an oil well on the property of the Thorn Hill School for Boys, a county institution in Mars township. It appears there now are wells there having a production worth about $15,000 annually. The total receipts from this source since the county acquired the property are said to be about $100,000.

Commissioner McGovern voted negatively on the $4,500 appropriation. His reason was that he was opposed to the county "going into business." But the county already is in business as an oil producer. It still would be in business were it to lease its property to others, as most land owners do, and permit them to drill the wells. It would receive whatever were agreed upon as a consideration for the lease as well as the value of a stipulated fraction of the production, the entire cost of operation being upon the lessee. In short, the county would derive a revenue from oil. So, it will be seen that it is pretty difficult for the county to stay out of business, with an oil property on its hands.

It could do that, of course, by simply ignoring what nature has provided and permit it to lie there untouched. How would the public be benefited by that? Petroleum is a necessity these days and we are sure citizens will not object to the county making what it owns of that commodity available for use instead of allowing it to remain in the ground, where it serves no one. If the fact that the county has to accept some thousands of dollars a year this way is what makes it objectionable, let Mr. McGovern be reassured. The taxpayers will not kick.

Traffic Betterment Plan Would Banish Horse Here

Old Dobbin who, figuratively, has been venting the horse laugh on those who have been predicting his passing these many years, is facing the most serious attempt to lay him on the shelf that ever has confronted him. They are going to drive him off the city streets, here and elsewhere in this state if the Better Traffic Committee of Pittsburgh has its way. Five years more only for Dobbin, the committee says. It plans to have representation at a meeting of the State Highway Commission next week and will ask that the vehicular code be amended to bar horse-drawn vehicles from city streets.

Dobbin, it is found, has been and is guilty of slowing up traffic, being the cause of much congestion. He has no defense, as far as we can see, even though sentiment makes us his friend. We love him but—the all-revealing but—we ride in a car. We think he is noble, and all that, but we don't want to be bothered with him. We think he is more beautiful than any automobile ever could be, but we are in a hurry and he is too slow for us. He can't change. We can change, have changed and are changing all the time—forced to do so by constantly changing life. We have added Mercury's wings to our heels while Dobbin's hoofs remain unfeathered.

The faithful horse has put up a sturdy protest against going. He has seen transportation, store delivery and fire-fighting motorized, but has proved that he is the better-fitted in some special capacities. So he has held on, but now he is found to be in the way and in such a minority, comparatively, that the majority insists that he get out of the way and "let somebody run what can run." That is fate, Dobbin. If we can't keep up with the game, life pushes us out.

A Good Place to Live; A Good Place to Thrive

We are frequently told that Pittsburgh is a good place to live. It also is a good place to thrive.

The will of Stanislaus Zoch, filed yesterday, disposes of an estate valued at $775,000.

Mr. Zoch was born a poor boy in Europe. He came to Pittsburgh, engaged in the restaurant business and amassed a fortune. There are many cases like his, but it is worth directing attention to this one on account of Mr. Zoch's prominence.

Many thousands of Pittsburghers patronized "Coffee Jake's," the name by which the Zoch restaurant was known, and all of them will agree that he honestly earned the prosperity that came to him.

Companionate Marriage

Which Means NO Marriage.

A Columbia College newspaper stirs up mild excitement by discussing "companionate marriage," a polite name for something unpleasant. It has been suggested that companionate marriages should be "subsidized by the parents of the couples involved," to restrict the population.

Parents subsidizing such a marriage would be queer to put it politely. And any young man accepting a subsidy for his affections should be dropped into the ash can and forgotten.

But it is not necessary to worry about companionate marriage.

We do not know HOW, but when the time comes a WISDOM greater than ours will take care of the population problem.

Smaller families, better children, later marriages, longer lives, as the race improves, will help.

There is more danger of population too small than of population too big.

Wise nature attends to that, making every boy and girl worth while certain that there is only ONE human being in the world, only one destiny thinkable, namely, to live with that ONE human being forever and ever.

Tales That Are Told

Useless

LITTLE LUCY had been absent from her music lessons and was giving her music teacher the reason.

"I haven't brought a note from mother," she concluded, "because she was too busy to write one this morning."

The teacher was inclined to be suspicious.

"Oh," she said. "Why didn't you ask your father?"

Lucy was confused, but only for a moment.

"He's no good at excuses," she explained glibly. "Mother catches him out nearly every time, and you're smarter than she is."

All the Difference

THE clock had just struck 12 when Henpeck inserted his latchkey and let himself into his suburban villa.

His wife was ready for him.

"Where have you been, I'd like to know?" she snapped.

"I—er—er——" began Henpeck hesitatingly, when he was interrupted.

"Yes, go on. I suppose you'll tell me you've been to see a sick friend—holding his hand all the evening?"

"Oh, no, my dear," replied the erring husband sadly. "If I'd been holding his hand, I would have made some money."

Missed Fire

THE commercial traveler was explaining why he insisted on smoking a certain brand of cheap cigarets.

"But, you see," he began, "I get coupons with those cigarets and when I've collected 50,000 of them I get a piano."

"My dear chap," replied one of the company promptly, "if you smoke 50,000 of those things, you'll want a harp more than anything."

Everybody laughed loudly at this sally with the exception of one man, who, after waiting several moments, remarked:

"Ay, it wad be awkward traveling wi' a piano."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SOME of these collectors of old books and antique things were sitting around talking about what bargains they had got and what they didn't get. They are great fellows to pretend that they are finding bargains all the time. Each one of them kids himself, and they all kid each other about how cheap they get their first editions and such stuff.

One fellow was saying that he had pretty near got rich once out of a great bargain that was in the family.

"My grandfather had a letter that was signed by three signers of the Declaration of Independence. How was that for first edition stuff? But the old man didn't know how valuable it was, and he give it away or burned it up or something."

There was a gentleman there by the name of Cohen and he felt like he couldn't let the old man get away with such a story, so he says, "Well, I might have got rich, too, if all my grandfathers had had a lot of sense. One of my ancestors had the first edition of the Ten Commandments, and he went and broke it in two."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

COMES now Diana Bourbon in December Cosmopolitan and pulls a pogrom on American wives.

"Few professions are higher paid than that of matrimony—for a woman," says she. "Few are, as a general rule, more inefficiently bungled.

"THIS IS ESPECIALLY TRUE OF AMERICA, WHERE I HONESTLY THINK THE MAJORITY OF WIVES DO ABSOLUTELY NOTHING TO EARN THEIR KEEP.

"Halos have no place about the heads of the wives of today who expend rather less care upon the business of matrimony than a stenographer would upon a shorthand note of an employer's letter.

"There is a reason, of course. THE INCOMPETENT STENOGRAPHER IS LIABLE TO UNSENTIMENTAL DISMISSAL AT ANY MOMENT WHEN IT BECOMES APPARENT THAT SHE IS LYING DOWN ON HER JOB. A WIFE WHO SELDOM STANDS UP TO HERS MAY BE AS INCOMPETENT AS SHE LIKES."

Is it true? You and I know of hundreds of cases where it ISN'T true, mere honor to 'em. So does Diana Bourbon—and says so. But we also know of whole regiments of Listless Ladies who merit every mean remark—and then some.

NO ASSOCIATION IN HUMAN HISTORY HAS RECEIVED MORE FLATTERING PUBLICITY THAN THAT OF AMERICAN WIVES—AND NONE EVER PROTECTED A CHOICER BUNCH OF GRAFTERS.

HOW DO THEY GET THAT WAY?

THEY GET THAT WAY BECAUSE MEN LET THEM GET THAT WAY.

Every male that reads the article will indignantly deny the foregoing statement. He will swear to high heaven that he desires an intelligent, efficient, conscientious lady as chatelaine of his home.

Don't you believe him!

AN INTELLIGENT, EFFICIENT, CONSCIENTIOUS LADY WOULD MAKE THE AVERAGE MAN LOOK AND FEEL LIKE THIRTY CENTS AND HE KNOWS IT. NATURALLY HE PICKS A MATE THAT WILL MAKE HIM SHINE BY CONTRAST.

Hence that popular institution of chivalry. Were the boys who invented chivalry really consumed with a desire to protect their little sisters? They were not. If you doubt it, look at the laws they made for the ladies while chivalry was in its choicest flower—and would still be making if they dast. Legally mamma shared honors with infants and imbeciles. Nevertheless, the gentlemen went to no end of trouble getting fitted for tin suits and fighting jousts to do her honor. Why? Because they wanted to show off.

AND THERE'S NOTHING THAT ILLUMINATES A MANLY MALE AS MUCH AS A NITWIT FEMALE WHO NEEDS A LOT OF PROTECTION.

So today we have large numbers of utterly useless females sitting around doing nothing while their lords and masters work their fool heads off. But if you happen to meet up with one of these martyr males and he pulls the usual wheeze about his hard lot, don't waste any tears on him. He likes it!

COMPARING HIS VAST INTELLECT, HIS TERRIFIC ENERGY AND NOBLE NATURE WITH THAT WAD OF WASTE IS HIS FAVORITE INDOOR SPORT AND HE'D DUCK FOR COVER IF YOU OFFERED HIM A REAL, TWO-FISTED DAME WHOM HE COULDN'T LOOK UPON WITH HIS CONDESCENDING SCORN.

THE PRAIRIE

By Garrett P. Serviss

EVERY American of ripe age who recalls his school days must remember the prairies that were described and pictured in his geography book. In his imagination they appeared dotted with the great hairy-headed buffalos, wandering on treeless plains that stretched away until they disappeared at the horizon like an ocean. Living in the Eastern States amidst hills and forests, he could hardly conceive the absence of such things anywhere, so that the prairies seemed to him a wonderland, whose charm was heightened when Fenimore Cooper began to enliven it by the romantic and exciting presence of his trappers, bee-hunters and wild Indians.

What made the prairies, and why did not trees grow upon them, when they had plenty of tall grass and similar vegetation? In answer to these questions it has generally been asserted that fires swept off the trees and herds of buffalos kept them from growing up again. Other explanations are based upon conditions of drainage, following the disappearance of the ice-fields at the close of the last glacial epoch.

The question of the origin of the prairies is, in fact, not settled although the white man has conquered them by finding a way to make groves and forests grow, as well as vast grainfields flourish, where the buffalo and the red men knew only treeless expanses. Prof. B. Shimek of the State University of Iowa has studied the prairies for more than 50 years, and he maintains that the forest fire and buffalo theories do not solve the mystery. He says it is a mistake to affirm, as some do, that forests are gradually encroaching upon the large prairie areas yet remaining. He finds that where the prairie turf has been broken or disturbed, the disturbed areas are first invaded by native "prairie weeds" (often with introduced weeds), but in the course of a few seasons the characteristic flora comes back. This consists not only of grasses but of many other plants, especially compositae and leguminosae. Moreover, thousands of acres of prairie groves have perished, and "most of them would do so in time if man did not change conditions by planting and cultivation and by creating protected zones by erecting buildings and planting shelter-beds."

Areas once covered by implanted groves have, it seems, been reoccupied by the prairie flora where cultivation has not interfefed. Thus though man has for his immediate purposes conquered the prairie, still it is a conquest that has to be maintained and defended by virtue of continuous occupation. The prairie flora, Prof. Shimek contends, represents a "climax" stage, which shows the reason why it persists and comes back again when it gets a chance. Recent statements about the extent of the invasion of the prairie areas by forests he considers to be exaggerated, declaring that where changes have occurred along the borders of prairie regions they are comparatively slight fluctuations, caused by alternating wet and dry seasons, and they are quite likely to be retreats as advances of the forests.

Bible Passages

"Give Unto the Lord"

(Psalm 29.)

GIVE unto the Lord, O ye mighty, give unto the Lord glory and strength.

Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness.

The voice of the Lord is upon the waters: the God of glory thundereth: the Lord is upon many waters.

The voice of the Lord is powerful; the voice of the Lord is full of majesty.

The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars; yea, the Lord breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

He maketh them also to skip like a calf; Lebanon and Sirion like a young unicorn.

The voice of the Lord divideth the flames of fire.

The voice of the Lord shaketh the wilderness; the Lord shaketh the wilderness of Kadesh.

The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to calve, and discovereth the forests: and in his temple doth every one speak of his glory.

The Lord sitteth upon the flood; yea, the Lord sitteth King for ever.

The Lord will give strength unto his people; the Lord will bless his people with peace.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

In Hope

PERFECTION lies
In distant skies
And blooms in foreign soil,
Remote from these
Dull lands and seas,
These hours of common toil.

Forever dear,
But never near,
Perfection dwells in hope;
We catch the gleam,
We dream the dream,
And toward its radiance grope.

Yet, though it lies
In distant skies,
We feel perfection's spell;
Each day we know
Its magic glow . . .
In hope we also dwell!

Isn't It So?

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Adroit ladies with a penchant for tapping the paying lodes in the gold fields of Broadway are about the best dressed in the town. Dowdiness is as much of a complete blight to the artful industry as a swell address is a boon.

The engaging maidens who take the buerre et oeuf gentry for the proverbial "cleaning" may have only a simpering smile and the intellectual equipment of a feeble minded gnat, but their wardrobes reflect the seasonal vagaries of the rue de la Paix. They are clothed in the best.

The most celebrated Lorelei came to New York with only a shiny blue serge and a tam and was soon lost in the shuffle dealing 'em off the arm in a Tenth avenue lunchroom. Then she saw the Great Light and tapped a sympathetic old lolo for a dressy outfit and quit the beanery.

This was her start and in six years she has worked her way up to duplex apartments, diamond bracelets and other expensive things. To a struggling girl friend she once confieded the secret of her triumph as; "Eighty per cent clothes and 20 per cent tears."

Clothes may not make the lady but they do make the gals attractive to those lonely philanderers so "misunderstood at home." And that is important to those who spin their seductive webs. Character and family traditions have no part in Broadway's love making. It is a racket.

A line from a play of Broadway manners this season ran: "You can be dumb, dearie, but you gotta have a front." There is a true story of a mouse like and plainly dressed stenographer who received a windfall in the shape of a $10,000 legacy. She decided to gamble.

She spent $7,000 for a collection of clothes, bobbed her hair and moved into a sumptuous suite in one of the fashionable hotels, gracing the smart dining room nightly. In six weeks she became the bride of an aging high roller. And while he has escaped the ether cone he has a hacking cough.

Supplementing these observations on clothes value, there is an expert in town who specializes in teaching sartorial smartness, appealing chiefly to young girls who have come to New York to make their way. In one of her circulars she says: "Anyone can be important in New York with proper clothes." It may be she takes in too much territory, but it is certainly true of the flashy world of Broadway.

* * *

The old time actor of the funny papers is not entirely extinct on the Rialto. Now and then he drops into the agencies from no one knows where to bestow his courtly bow and receives the customary "Nothing today, sir." His voice, vibrant and low, retains its old time grandeur—a voice, incidentally, that is crying almost alone in the wilderness. His venerable silk hat sags a little and the moths have done their worst to his fur collared coat, but he preserves the shabby dignity that is traditional. His spats are frayed and slightly curled around the edges and he carries his one glove in the hand that holds his cane. He has stalked tragedy during his best years. Now it stalks him.

Despite these few remaining types of another day, actors offer little today to distinguish them from the ordinary run of folk. They might be bond brokers, merchants or even columnists. In fact, I'll go further and bet a cookie a stranger cannot spot an actor the length of Broadway. They once had a Certain Something that made them stand apart. It might have been a commanding shock of long hair, a Grecian profile, bushy brows over sorrowful eyes or an inch-wide black silk eyeglass ribbon.

Another theatrical character seen no more is the buxom and garrulous landlady of the theatrical boarding house—the type immortalized years ago by Helen Green, in her Madam de Shine stories in the Morning Telegraph.

* * *

Which recalls Miss Green's old but hilarious story of the tall-hatted Thespian who inquired loudly of the harassed landlady: "Madam, what is your best term for actors?" "Lousey bums," she replied, slamming the door.

TWO DEUCES WIN

By Herbert Kaufman

THE Van Sweringens have picked up another road. Thereby hangs a tale which begins in a country village where a pair of boys used to watch the trains go by and wonder what the sleepers were like.

Now they ride in private cars, for days at a time, without switching from their own lines.

Harriman, who died in control of several transcontinental lines, began as a broker's clerk.

Jim Hill started as a station agent; Jay Gould was a clock peddler, and old Commodore Vanderbilt ran a home-made ferryboat.

Folk used to say that such miracles of self-elevation as theirs were possible before capital was cornered by financial monopoly, but we'd quit believing in Horatio Alger heroics when the Van Sweringen boys were still delivering papers.

They saved pennies and invested them in corner lots.

They sold the lots and put the proceeds into acreage. They promoted suburban developments and reinvested the profits in additional home projects; became millionaires in their early thirties, then bankers, and finally acquired a moth-eaten railroad, modernized it and made it the nucleus of a vast system.

History, the incurable optimist, does repeat itself. Opportunity never loses faith in pluck and enterprise.

America will have Hills and Harrimans, Fords and Van Sweringens as long as ambition aspires to big games without fear of the big stacks across the table.

The average man fails to win because he plays his chips, not his hand—and his head.

The Van Sweringens "sat in" with a stack of newspapers. They began as deuces among the transportation kings and stuck it out until they became kings, too.

Every penny-anter had the same deck for a birthright.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A CHICAGO paper shows a picture of a young woman mentioned in the Rothstein case and quotes her as saying: "I have lived in Chicago since I was 16 and have never been mixed up in a murder case."

There's a record.

A man asks the Chicago courts to annul his marriage. He came from Germany to marry a woman who deserted him immediately after the ceremony. His name is Eldon C. Kaefer.

Having been given our rights we can't be blamed if we go a little farther and give a little of the kind of treatment we used to get.

In the future plays and novels, the wronged women are all going to be men. Liza crossing the ice will wear trousers and a brown derby.

A Los Angeles man waxed wroth because a fellow named Morgan stole his wife and his money, too. He didn't bring either back. Money got that way doesn't often come back, but all you have to do is wait for the wives.

The lady was riding in a taxicab past the stadium where the big games are held, and as there were strings of people filing through the gates she wondered what teams were playing so she asked the taxi driver:

"What's the game today?"

Very politely he leaned over and shouted to her through the open window: "Football."

And THEN she knew all about it.

As the taxi rolled through the park the driver leaned over and said earnestly: "See those crowds over there? See that automobile in the lagoon? Some fellows drove off into the water last night and they ain't found 'em yet. They went right under and they are completely dead."

"My, my!" said the lady.

"Yes, 'em," said the driver, "the car's there if they ever get it out but it killed the two men entirely."

Rebecca West, British novelist, says that the lives of American women art tragic, that they live in skyscrapers and are not normally developed.

What is abnormally developed is the jealousy of our English sisters.

"Don't you dance, Mrs. Jones?" asked one of the party.

"No, I don't," said Mrs. Jones, "I found out that I had to dance with all the old fogies my own age who stepped all over me or offend somebody, while my husband could pick out the ones he wanted because the men do the asking, so I just quit dancing."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DO YOU become uneasy in the presence of those who are studying you?

You wonder what they are trying to learn about you.

Perhaps this discomfiture is greatest when you are in the presence of those who make a living by writing.

You are afraid that you may give impressions that can be used by the professional writer.

To avoid giving the writer suggestions, how do you act?

Do you try to "high-hat" writers or do you ignore them?

When you try such tactics you are posing, and that is discernible.

The writer who uses people as his subjects is usually a natural born character-writer—a reader of human nature.

To try to mask your peculiarities only amuses him or her.

To try deception or to use superior airs only singles you out for notice and finally for criticism.

It attracts the attention of "a writing person" and fairly throws at his head the very thing you wish to keep from notice.

Be natural and you won't present any material for a story.

If you do present suggestions, they are more likely to be favorable.
